

'Truth Is the First Casualty of War', Symposium Told

By RAY HERST
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer
It will not be an "easy week."
Dr. Fred A. Sondermann, director of the Colorado College Symposium on World War II, said Sunday night at the opening session of the week-long symposium.

"However terrible it might be, we need to know about it," he said.
And those attending the initial session, including many CC students who weren't born when the war broke out, learned how terrible and uneasy war could be.
They learned that the "Thoughts of War" are varied and often painfully simple.

They learned that the thoughts of war are thoughts of guilt and frustration, hatred and fear, hope and anger and thoughts of terror.
They learned that the thoughts can come from the searching mind of a young man, angry at a world that could send men to kill men; or from the mind of a man assuming the guilt of a world for the death of thousands; or from a young idealistic girl looking for hope in a world that seemed to have forgotten hope; or from a man, confined in a war prison, looking for an answer to the brutality and senselessness of war; or from the anguished soul of a poet chanting a lament of frustration for an infant killed by the war.

And they learned that the sounds of the war boil down to one: from the chatter of machine guns, the constant pounding of artillery, the horrible boom of bombs, the sound of war is the death screams of its victims.

This was the theme of the opening session of the week-long symposium — "The Thoughts and Sounds of War."
Featured speaker Sunday was J. Glenn Gray of the Department of Philosophy at CC.

Dr. Gray enlisted as a private in 1941. He took with him a freshly won doctor of philosophy degree and a blank journal which he quickly filled up with his thoughts of war.
In 1944, he won a battlefield commission and he was assigned to the troops which invaded Italy and pushed their way thru that country, France and into Germany. He read excerpts from the journal written during that period.

He notes in the journal that nations, like men, "cannot bear the stark reality of death" in war and said he learned early that "truth is the first casualty" (Turn to Page 4, Column 2)

"I place economy among the first and most important virtues and public debt as the greatest of dangers to be feared."

Rusk Blames Castro for Panama Riots; Says U. S. Will Not Leave Canal Zone

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk says Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro is partly to blame for the rioting in Panama and declares the United States cannot afford to pull out of the Canal Zone.

He disagrees with any suggestion that the disorders which took more than a score of lives in Panama have given a black eye to Washington's Latin American policies.

Rusk's statements on the Canal Zone crisis were made Sunday on the ABC radio and television program, "Issues and Answers."

The Johnson administration, it was learned today, has warned U.S. leaders in the Canal Zone that it will not tolerate any departure from the agreement between the United States and Panama.

The stern admonition that all U.S. citizens in the zone must abide by U.S.-Panamanian accord was issued, officials said, in order to prevent any recurrence of the kind of demonstration that triggered the current crisis.

It was a student protest of a

U.S. government ruling about the flying of Panama's flag in the Canal Zone that helped to bring about the violent clashes of the past few days.
As a result of this crisis, President Johnson now has to face urgently the possibility of new negotiation with Panama on the treaty by which the United States exerts absolute control over the strategic waterway.

Rusk, in publicly ruling out official thought that the United States might give up the Canal Zone or the military bases long established there, said he has not heard any responsible leader raise that point.
Rusk left no doubt, however, that the U.S. government is prepared to open discussion with the Panamanian government of President Roberto Chiari on Chiari's demand for revision of the treaty governing the Canal Zone. The pact goes back to 1903 and has been revised at least twice in modern times.

Rusk said that "over the years since 1903 there have been steps by which we gave up various treaty rights." At the moment the urgent need is for restoration of law and order in (Turn to Page 4, Column 5)

Three Are Killed In Plane Crash At Grand Junction

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP)—A Wyoming doctor, his wife and their two-week-old son were killed in the crash of their light airplane near Grand Junction Saturday.

Victims were the pilot, Dr. O. L. Vaden, 36, his wife Sally, 33, and the baby, Douglas.
Ann Ireland, 40, suffered a broken pelvis and is in a hospital here. Another son, Jeffrey, 3, was treated for injuries at the hospital and released. Two other children, Oakley, 7, and Nancy 5, remained in Thermopolis.
Members of the family said Dr. and Mrs. Vaden were en route to Los Angeles to show off the new baby to relatives.
The Federal Aviation Agency said the pilot messaged twice that the weather was closing in and he was going to attempt a landing on U.S. Highway 6-27 about 17 miles northeast of Grand Junction.
Instead, the plane crashed about 100 yards from the Denver & Rio Grande Western tracks near Palisade, Colo.
Dr. Vaden had been medical director of the Gottsch Rehabilitation Center in Denver. (Turn to Page 4, Column 4)

U. S. Panama, OAS to Set Up Joint Peace-Keeping Group in Zone

By JOE MCGOWAN
PANAMA (AP)—Amid some signs of diminishing tension between the United States and Panama, U.S. personnel returned today to the embassy building in downtown Panama.

Diplomatic sources reported that the United States and Panama agreed to set up a joint authority with the Organization of American States in an effort to keep peace along the restive Canal Zone border.

But agreement on machinery for the peace-keeping operation remained to be worked out in final meeting of the OAS mission with U.S. and Panama representatives before the mission returns to Washington.
U.S. personnel quit the embassy building and burned secret papers Saturday, fearing that the building might become a target for anti-U.S. demonstrations.

Panama has broken relations with the United States and demanded guarantees for revision of the 61-year-old Panama Canal treaty in the wake of U.S.-Panamanian clashes on the Canal Zone border.
The five-man delegation from the Organization of American States arranged for a final meeting, before flying back to Washington today to settle technical details for the peace authority proposed by Argentina.

Informants said the United States and Panama would each have one military man and one civilian on the authority, with a neutral OAS representative as chairman. Alfredo Vazquez Car-

Atomic Bomber Crash Kills Five In Maryland

CUMBERLAND, Md. (UPI)—An Air Force B52 jet bomber carrying five men and two unarmed nuclear weapons crashed in a snowstorm early today about 40 miles northwest of here.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said there was no danger of a nuclear explosion and no need for clearing the area. But he cautioned all but official rescue parties to stay away from the rugged area to "facilitate removal operations."
No crash survivors were found immediately.
The spokesman said an experienced explosive ordnance disposal team was ordered to the scene as is usual in such (Turn to Page 4, Column 6)

4,000 Troops to Be Airlifted Across Pacific in War Games

TOKYO (UPI)—The U. S. Army will fly 4,000 troops across the Pacific next month to test a new concept for stopping aggression within hours, it was disclosed today.
U. S. Army headquarters in Japan announced plans for airlifting the 25th Infantry Division brigade task force from Hawaii to Okinawa.
Ships dispatched from a U.S.

naval base in the Philippines will meet the soldiers on the beach with artillery, tanks and other heavy equipment needed in warfare.

The transpacific war games follows last autumn's airlift of a full army division from the United States to West Germany.

Washington is testing and refining methods for rapid development of combat troops and equipment in order to reduce American forces stationed overseas and to better meet sudden wars in remote corners of the globe.

The United States announced in December that it will withdraw some 3,500 Air Force men from Japan during 1964.

Other American troop reductions in the Far East may follow.
The Army said the February exercise will be the first of its kind ever staged in the Pacific.

Dr. Sondermann Gets Telegram From Salinger

The following telegram was received from the White House Sunday by Dr. Fred Sondermann, director of the Colorado College Symposium on World War II and read at the opening session:

"The lessons learned by those of us who have lived and served during the years of World War II will not soon be forgotten. It is just as important to the future of this country and of the world that you to whom World War II is not even a memory learn of its causes, conduct and consequences."

"On behalf of the President, I am delighted to commend you, Dr. Sondermann, your distinguished panel of experts and all those participating in Colorado College's extensive and highly ambitious symposium on World War II. I know all of you will be richly rewarded by your participation."
It was signed by Pierre Salinger, White House Press secretary.

Religious Riots Claim 75 Dead In Calcutta

By ALAN M. KENNEDY
CALCUTTA, India (AP)—Indian army troops patrolled Calcutta and its suburbs today with shoot-to-kill orders to check Hindu-Muslim violence that has claimed at least 75 lives. Most of the dead are Muslims.
Widespread looting and arson was reported in and around Calcutta. The city, India's largest, is in West Bengal State. More than 4,000 persons were arrested.

It was the worst communal outbreak since 1947, when the Indian subcontinent was partitioned and hundreds of thousands were massacred. Refugees from neighboring East Pakistan have reported 29 dead there in attacks on Hindus.
Home Minister G. L. Nanda said "martial law without the name" was ordered for 11 areas where the worst violence was reported. He pledged the army and police would show "no mercy" in suppressing the communal attacks which developed into widespread looting and arson Sunday.

"Make no mistake about it," Nanda said. "They are going to do their job. It is more merciful to do the job quickly and well than to have it long and drawn out."
Sunday 15 persons were killed, six by police or army (Turn to Page 4, Column 4)

Symposium Told Stalin to Blame For World War II

By RAY HERST
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer
Stalin was accorded the secondary responsibility for the outbreak of World War II today by a leading American historian.

Dr. John Snell, dean of the Graduate School and professor of history at Tulane University, said the Soviet wartime leader, escaped the criticism he deserved for his share of the responsibility for the war only because Soviet judges sat on the Nuremberg Tribunal.

Dr. Snell was principal speaker at the first working session of the Colorado College World War II symposium which opened Sunday.
In laying a large portion of the responsibility for the outbreak of the war on Stalin, the historian also cited British and French appeasement and the lack of U.S. interest as part of the reason for the war itself.

However, he put forth the theory that "Stalin's responsibility for the outbreak of World War II was second only to that of Hitler himself."
Snell, author of several articles and books on the war and Nazi Germany, said that without the Nazi-Soviet pact of Aug. 23, 1939, Hitler would not have invaded Poland.
He held that Hitler would inevitably have gone to war but (Turn to Page 11, Column 5)

The study, based on an analysis of prescriptions for phenothiazine tranquilizers, showed that few under 30 or over 60 use the drug. It was also shown that in the total group, including both men and women, 26 per cent were white collar workers. Thirty-eight per cent were housewives.

Spice Island of Zanzibar Ousts Sultan in Revolt

DAR-ESS-SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP)—African nationalists proclaimed a republic on the East African spice island of Zanzibar Sunday after overthrowing the Arab sultan in an overnight revolt.
Several persons were reported killed and many others wounded in heavy fighting that erupted Saturday night and raged into early Sunday around police stations, an army and the residence of Prime Minister Mohammed Shant Hamadi.

A radio station, identifying itself as "The Freedom Fighters of Zanzibar," said at least two policemen were killed in the successful storming of the army. There were reports another policeman was killed defending the prime minister's home.
The rebel broadcast said Hamadi and Sultan Seyyid Jamshid Bin Abdullah had taken refuge on a cruise liner in the harbor.
By late Sunday night the rebels were reported to have seized buildings in or around Zanzibar City.

They took over the cable office and halted cable services from the island. They also held the airport, and no planes were allowed to take off or land. Only faulty telephone communications were open.
The United States sent the destroyer Manley to remove American women and children. A U.S. State Department source in Washington said the 57 Americans stationed on the island at a tracking station for the Project Mercury satellite program appeared to be in no immediate danger. The U.S. consul in Zanzibar reported to the embassy in Dar-es-Salaam that it was "all quiet."

The British frigate Owen was sent to remove British citizens if necessary.
The revolt occurred a month and two days after Zanzibar gained independence. It was a British protectorate for 73 years. Zanzibar remained in the British Commonwealth. The rebel broadcasts gave no indication (Turn to Page 4, Column 1)

Castro Arrives In Moscow; May Seek More Aid

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN
MOSCOW (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro arrived today on a surprise visit to Soviet Premier Khrushchev with more Soviet economic aid for Cuba presumably his aim.

The Cuban leader may have trouble getting an increase in help. Khrushchev is spending hundreds of millions of dollars to buy wheat from Canada, Australia and the United States, and he has embarked on a massive expansion of the Soviet chemical industry.

Khrushchev gave Castro the same red carpet welcome he gave the Cuban last April, when Castro visited the Soviet Union for five weeks. The Soviet premier was at the airport along with other Soviet officials and the diplomatic corps — minus (Turn to Page 4, Column 8)

Drop in Farm Income Being Forecast in U.S.

By BERNARD BRENNER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—American agriculture heads into 1964 with prospects of another drop in net farm income and battles looming over new federal production control and subsidy programs for wheat and cotton.

The new year could produce legislation making a major shift in farm policy by dropping wheat from the list of crops on which mandatory federal production controls can be imposed if farmers accept them in referendum.

On the international scene, President Johnson's new administration is expected to give priority treatment in 1964 to efforts to maintain dollar export markets for U.S. farm products by fighting what officials describe as a trend toward protectionism in the European Common Market.

At home, Agriculture Department economists estimate that unless present wheat laws are rewritten early in 1964, national net farm income probably will drop about 5 per cent to about $11.6 billion.

This decline would be the second successive drop. The 1963 income was estimated at $12.2 billion compared with $12.6 billion for 1962.

Despite these figures, American agriculture continues to boom to new production records, spurred by new gains in technology and farm science. Total farm output topped all previous records for the sixth straight year in 1963 and a further increase is predicted for 1964.

The drop in net farm income does not mean most U.S. farmers will be poorer in 1964 than in 1963. With the number of farms and farmers continuing to shrink, per capita personal income of farm people—including income from non-farm jobs—hit a new all-time high average of $1,436 this year. For 1964, economists estimate the figure would be about the same if net farm income takes the predicted 5 per cent drop.

The forecast of a sharp drop in 1964 wheat income—disputed as to pessimistic by some farm leaders—is based on the fact that wheat price supports for 1964 were cut. The cut was required by law because wheat growers, voting in a referendum last Spring, dealt a precedent-shattering defeat to a Kennedy administration proposal for mandatory federal production controls coupled with high price supports for the 1964 wheat crop.

The law setting up the rejected wheat program is permanent legislation. So, unless something is done, wheat supports for growers who voluntarily restrict 1964 production will be down to $1.25 per bushel. And farmers will have to vote again next Spring on a choice between continued supports at that level for 1965 or higher props with mandatory controls.

In one of President Johnson's early moves, however, he told agriculture secretary Orville L. Freeman he was worried about the 1964 wheat income outlook and directed him to try to develop a new program.

This pointed to an effort to get new legislation on the books next year in time to affect 1964 crop prices. While Johnson did not specify the kind of bill he wanted, it was expected to offer farmers price supports substantially above the $1.25 level in return for voluntary compliance with production restrictions.

Such a program would be a marked shift away from the mandatory controls used for wheat, cotton, peanuts, rice and tobacco for many years and strongly backed by the late President Kennedy.

The mandatory control system was developed in an effort to make it possible for the government to guarantee high support prices for farmers without piling up huge surpluses. When mandatory controls—termed "marketing quotas"—are in effect, farmers who violate federal acreage allotments are subject to cash penalties.

If farmers reject quotas for any crop affected by these laws, supports drop to low levels. Even then, however, as in the case of 1964-crop wheat, the low supports are available only to farmers who voluntarily comply with acreage restrictions. Farmers who ignore acreage allotments are not subject to quota-violation fines, but they get no price supports.

Sentiment among some farm groups, however, has been shifting away from the mandatory control systems in recent years and rising per-acre yields have made the control programs themselves less and less effective. Cotton acreage for 1963, for example, was cut 9 per cent under a mandatory acreage control program but farmers produced a surplus by pushing per-acre yields to a new record.

Even before Kennedy was shot, administration farm officials were saying privately they might shift to approval of voluntary-control wheat legislation in 1964. But no major drive is in sight for 1964 to drop existing control systems for cotton, rice, peanuts or tobacco.

Vatican Moves To Speed Council Set for Autumn

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI acted here to speed up work at this fall's third session of the Ecumenical Council.

The Pope appointed 12 men to council commissions completing a reshuffle sought by council liberals who complained that conservatives—through their control of many bodies—were holding up work of the historic gathering.

Among the appointees were one American and three Eastern bishops. The naming of the Eastern churchmen apparently was intended to solidify moves for Christian unity which have taken on new importance since Pope Paul's meetings with Eastern Orthodox Patriarch Athenagoras I of Constantinople in the Holy Land Sunday and Monday.

The Pope, who returned Monday night to a triumphal Roman welcome from his three-day Holy Land pilgrimage, decided two days ago to call on President Antonio Segni and thank him for the reception.

Another reason for Saturday's visit may be that Paul wants to discuss with Segni the possibility of a visit to the U.S. at just 59c yd.

Europe Expects Economics Rosy, but Politics Cloudy

LONDON (UPI) — Economically rosy, politically cloudy. Those four words sum up what sort of year Europe expects 1964 to be, on the basis of reports from United Press International correspondents in the major capitals.

Harry Hobbs, UPI's European financial editor, sums up the economic outlook like this:

"The economic prospect for Britain and Europe is generally good. World trade has been expanding through 1963 and there is no reason at this stage to feel that the pace should slacken in 1964, or that industrial Europe's share in international business should not hold its own. Generally speaking, the post-war era of prosperity in continental western Europe should continue, though perhaps with some leveling off. Some of the 'boom' aspects of the post-war era have gone, but economic good health remains."

K. C. Thaler, UPI's chief diplomatic correspondent, sums up the political outlook for Europe thus:

"Europe faces a year of political uncertainty over the future of the Western alliance, Allied defense policies, trade strategy and cold war thaw prospects. Domestic elections, France's go-it-alone tactics, differences over control of the nuclear deterrent and pending tariff talks with the United States along with farm policy disputes within the Common Market all signify potential trouble. A complicating factor is the November presidential election in the United States which will put a 'wait and see' brake on a variety of inter-allied decisions."

Here are some country-by-country specifics:

Britain: Economically the country is set fair for 1964. Continued expansion is looked for. Planned government spending on roads, schools and hospitals alone would give the economy a massive assist. This does not necessarily mean all clear sailing. A new round of wage boosts could set off an inflationary spiral unless higher wages are matched by increased productivity. Britain also could have an unfavorable balance of payments if output and exports don't match increasing imports.

Politically, Britain will be more inward-looking than usual as it prepares for the general election and a possible change of government that could bring the Laborites to power after more than 12 years of Conservative rule. A major international issue will be the Conservative Party's insistence on Britain retaining an independent nuclear deterrent, which the Socialists claim is unnecessary. Although some differences in basic approach may crop up between Britain and the United States dealing with East-West and her world problems, the Anglo-American alliance will continue to be a firm one whichever of agricultural and other shortages to match growing consumer demand. Occupation with the Sino-Soviet ideological dispute is another reason the Kremlin is believed to want to remain at relative peace with the West. Like some of America's own allies, the Russians also want time to assess the new administration in Washington. And the possible changes an election year might effect in the United States. Further Soviet problems on Berlin, and perhaps some new tests of Allied access rights to West Berlin both on the ground and in the air, are probable. But, barring the unforeseen, most observers think the cold war status quo will be maintained.

France: President Charles De Gaulle's determination to make France an independent nuclear power and give it more say in the NATO alliance at the expense of United States direction, indicates another year of tensions within the Western alliance. On the economic-political front, De Gaulle is causing unease in the Common Market with his demands that West Germany and the other partners open up their borders for low-priced French farm exports. On the domestic economic front, the country's only real worry is in controlling wages and consumer demand to prevent further inflation. Government efforts to keep wages and prices under control will be a major preoccupation, in addition to finding the desired outlets for the country's expanded agricultural production.

West Germany: Economically robust Germany, with a gross national income of $90.5 billion, expects to increase that by four to six percent in 1964. Under its new chancellor, Ludwig Erhard, successor to Konrad Adenauer, the government is setting as one of its main objectives keeping the national budget in line with national production. At a time Germans were hoping to win reductions in their work week, Erhard is demanding more work. On the diplomatic front, no one foresees any improvement in the deadlock with Russia over divided Germany and the West Berlin enclave. In West Berlin, the feeling is 1964 will bring new trouble on the "access" lifelines but no major showdown.

Italy: Uncertainty over the strength and staying power of its new center-left coalition government shadows Italy's entry into 1964. The country could suffer both political and economic disaster if this government should blow up in angry division. Italy's powerful Communist Party stands in the wings. The first weeks or months of the new year could be critical for NATO-partner Italy.

Scandinavia and Finland: A good economic outlook in general. Sweden and Denmark have elections in 1964 and Norway has one due in 1965, so in all three countries business will tend to mark time. A big event for all the Nordic countries in 1964 will be the scheduled mid-year visit of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Belgium: Continued economic growth is looked for here with experts predicting a four per cent increase in the national product in 1964. One worry is to keep wages and prices in line to avoid possible inflation, a worry Belgium shares with much of western Europe.

Switzerland: Right now one of the wealthiest little countries in the world and looking to stay that way through 1964.

Holland: A year of political and economic stability is the forecast for the Netherlands, although it shares some worry with its Common Market partners over farm policy differences with France and an open trade war with the United States.

Spain and Portugal: Both countries are seeking to increase their industrialization and expand their domestic economies. Spain starts the year with a four-year $5.5 billion development program designed to raise national per capita income from $300 a year to $469. No major political changes are anticipated in Spain. Head of state Generalissimo Francisco Franco will remain chief of government although it is reported he will increasingly yield more responsibilities to Vice President Augustin Munoz Grandes. Portugal's main national and political concern is the struggle to keep its overseas African and Asian territories in the face of intensified demands for independence.

EDITOR'S NOTE — One of Washington's better known dog lovers, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, is breaking in a new puppy.

By FRANK E. TAYLOR
WASHINGTON (AP) — The buzzer used by Sen. Harry F. Byrd buzzed loud and long. His secretary, accustomed to a short, gentle buzz, hastened into the adjoining room used by the Virginia Democrat in the Senate Office Building.

There was no senator there.

Only Pam, a honey-colored cocker spaniel — the latest of a long line of dogs Byrd has kept as office companions through most of his years as a senator.

Pam had done the buzzing, simply chewing, in puppy fashion, through the electric wire.

Pam is only about 8 months old. She still has much to learn to catch up with Candy, a black cocker spaniel. Candy is ailing now and is kept at Byrd's estate, Rosemont, near Berryville, Va.

Candy, about 12, was Byrd's office and hiking companion for many years.

In her well-trained later years she served as a ready indicator whether Byrd was in his office or had left through a private door. His secretary could see the ball door from her desk, but not the senator's desk.

When Byrd was in his office Candy always lay at his feet beneath the desk. When he left, she invariably took up her position at the door to await his return.

"I've always been a great lover of dogs," the 76-year-old Byrd said. Dogs have been with him during most of his 30 years in the Senate and before that when he was governor of Virginia.

Byrd recalled that as governor he had a black and white fox terrier which accompanied him daily from the governor's mansion to his office in the state capital.

When he came to the Senate he had all cocker spaniels — Nicotine, Inky and Happy — before Candy and Pam.

"I've had lots of dogs, but now all I have only three," Byrd said. "I'd like to have more."

He said he likes hunting dogs and Great Danes, as well as cocker spaniels.

Byrd, a dedicated hiker, usually had his dog along for companionship. Candy and her predecessors were able to build up good mileage in walks and runs since the senator daily takes a walk in Rock Creek Park before going to his Senate office.

In spare times at home, he frequently climbs mountains.

Byrd, whose office walls are lined with an estimated 600 cartoons dealing with him as a principal subject, reached for one particular object on the wall near his desk.

"It was a letter on White House stationery, dated June 1, 1955, and signed by Earle D. Chesney, special assistant. The letter thanked Byrd for 'a most enjoyable luncheon at beautiful Rosemont.'"

Tragic Pattern May Be Developing in Borneo

By CONRAD FINK
KUCHING, Malaysia (AP) — A tragic pattern familiar to scores of Southeast Asian cities may be developing in this tiny jungle capital on the island of Borneo.

Nervous citizens whisper about terrorist bands loose in the countryside. Young helicopter pilots jam the bars, excitedly reliving the day's flights. Soldiers pack rifles under a tropical sun.

It is almost like the cities of South Viet Nam and Laos — and many here fear that Kuching is in for what has happened in Saigon and Vientiane.

Under a canopy of big power politics, the specter of revolt has been raised by disgruntled factions, foreign intruders and a highly disciplined Communist organization.

Bloodshed so far has been limited, but nerve-shattering, for citizens of Sarawak state, who gained independence from Britain Sept. 16 and joined in forming the federation of Malaysia.

British troops, guarding the queen's former possession under a defense agreement with Malaysia, have taken the heaviest losses and are carrying the burden of trying to stamp out terrorists.

There are about 5,000 British troops in Sarawak. Britons also man the main line of defense in neighboring Sabah, formerly British North Borneo.

The question for most everyone here is, "What will Sukarno do?"

The Indonesian president is regarded by most in Kuching as the mastermind of the young federation's troubles. British officials insist that Indonesian army officers and noncoms are leading raids over the border out of Indonesian Borneo.

More than 60 Indonesian army men are listed as among the dead of terrorist bands trapped by British commandos or Gurkhas on the Sarawak side of the border. Seven Indonesians, who the British say were captured in jungle ambushes, have been tried and convicted of leading raids or training revolutionaries within Sarawak.

Some officials in Kuching fear that Sukarno, as a foe of Malaysia, picked Sarawak as the place for a showdown. Others

"It was grand being with so many friends again — and that includes Happy who was right at the door to greet us," the letter added.

On the letter was a pen and ink sketch of a cocker spaniel, tagged Happy, and credited with saying: "I'm a one-man dog — and the senator is a one-dog man."

Pam, chewing on an old shoe now reduced to a mere sole, was lying close to the senator's feet.

"Pam," said the senator, "is showing promise."

regard Indonesia as a military and economic paper tiger, huffing and puffing in hopes the Malaysians and their British protectors will pack up and leave, as the Dutch left a section of Borneo.

According to reports reaching Kuching, terrorist bands operating out of Indonesian territory haven't done well tactically in any case where the mission was to attack British units directly.

The British, who developed the technique to an art in the Malaya war against Communists, respond quickly with helicopter-lifted troops to cut off trails leading through dense jungle to safe havens on the Indonesian side.

It is nearly impossible, however, to seal the hundreds of miles along the border. The British are succeeding primarily in reacting after attacks, not in halting them.

The British fear that terrorists will concentrate on moving quietly into the dissident area heavily populated by Chinese, of Sarawak, especially those with weapons and instructors in the art of revolt.

Dickinson is of that breed of artists who are now called "Western." But this type of artist has flourished for centuries, and now, with an extensive horse-culture in the United States, this type of artist is again in much demand.

Winter's Worst Storm Roars Thru Eastern U.S.

"the current winter season's worst" and advised motorists in the East they faced the possibility of becoming snowbound in zero weather if they ventured far from cities and towns.

That fate already has befallen hundreds of motorists.

In Illinois, some 500 motorists became overnight guests of the 1,200 citizens of Neoga, a farm community which opened up the stranded travelers.

In Indiana and Ohio, other hundreds of motorists abandoned autos on snow-clogged highways and sought shelter at service stations, road house and farms.

Springfield, capital of Illinois, was virtually isolated with only one main highway into the city open. A few miles south of Springfield 25 Boy Scouts on a weekend camping trip awaited rescue at their snowbound camps.

Schools were closed in the suburbs of Washington, D.C. In the nation's capital stringent snow plans which forbid motorists to block traffic or park on main streets being plowed were put into effect.

Hundreds of schools in the Midwest, Kentucky, West Virginia and Pennsylvania were closed.

Snow plows were laboring to reopen communication with several rural towns in Illinois which have been cut off for hours by the raging blizzard.

The gigantic storm system—which began as two separate storms, one from the Midwest moving east and the other moving northeast along the Atlantic states—generated high tides and gale force winds along the Atlantic coastal regions.

The snow and ice dipped into the South with light snow and freezing rain reported in Tennessee, North Carolina, Alabama and Georgia.

cation that this tie would be broken.

The rebel sultan said Sheikh Abeld Karume, head of the Afro-Shirazi party, was named president of the new republic.

Sheikh Abdul Rahman Mohamed Babu, whose Umma party was banned earlier this month for reportedly trying to incite a revolt, was named foreign minister. Kassim Hanga was made prime minister.

The Afro-Shirazi party favors close ties with other newly independent African nations. The Zanzibar Nationalist party, which headed the ousted coalition government, was isolationist and conservative.

U. S. sources consider Babu pro-Communist and his party Communist-oriented. Although Babu is an honorary title meaning "learned one" in Arabic, that is the name by which he is known.

Babu was in Dar-es-Salaam conferring with Tanganyikan President Julius Nyerere when the revolt broke out.

There has been long-standing animosity between the 60,000 Arabs, traditional rulers of the former slave center, and the other 240,000 islanders, who are mostly Africans.

About 70 persons were killed and 300 injured two years ago in a race riot.

Fire Hose Bids Accepted by City
Bids will be opened at 2 p.m. Jan. 30 at the city purchasing office for the purchase of 5,800 feet of fire hose.

City Purchasing Officer Wayne Jackson said 1,300 feet of the fire hose would be of the one and a half inch variety and 4,500 feet would be two and a half inches in diameter.

More than usual hose is being purchased this year because the city's No. 7 fire station, now under construction at Palmer Park and Academy Boulevards, will have to be equipped.

Specifications for bidding on the fire hose are available at Jackson's office in the City Service Center, 400 W. Fontanero St.

Truth Is First Casualty Of War, Symposium Told

of war." He read from his journal showing his frustration at reading glowing newspaper accounts of how the war was going and comparing them with the actual reality, the cold, the hunger, the fear, of the man on the battlefield.

He spoke of this as deception and read of his own self-deception in the war.

"But as I look at it now, 20 years later, I know that I had to practice that self-deception to keep sane," he commented.

From his journal, he described conditions on a troopship—"every available space was taken"—and of thinking that now, as a soldier, "I had made a bargain with the enemy. He has the right to shoot at me because I have embarked on an expedition against him."

The young soldier notes in 1944 that no man can "believe in the reality of the destructiveness of war until he sees a cemetery"; or until he sees women and children waiting for hours in a cold rain for the "garbage" from the enemy camps so that they can eat.

"I have grown accustomed to the sight of them now and can hear heartily," he notes after the initial shock of seeing them fight for the scraps.

Later he tells of hearing his first shots—"his first sounds of war"—and says they "fill me with excitement and alarm."

He adds later that only the alarm intensified as the sounds of the shooting grew nearer.

"Everything on the front lines is a matter of chance," he notes in the diary in reference to two fascist youths, acting as spies, who were killed by a firing squad.

His journal tells of the tragic, beaten faces of the people of the land who would not look up as the soldiers passed by; of the die-hard fascists who would not speak; of the terror of a bombing raid in the middle of the night when his teeth could not stop "chattering"; and he was filled with a "childish terror" listening to the bombs bursting around him as he cowered in a corner dressed only in his shorts.

His journal tells of the young soldier entering Rome triumphantly with his comrades and being greeted by cheering, singing masses of people who rushed out to kiss and embrace the conquering heroes, of the children gathering around them looking for cigarettes and candy, and of the "man-hungry girls" who made no secret that the men were welcome to visit them.

Dr. Gray read also of moving out of Rome in pursuit of the German Army; of the "stream of traffic that choked the roads with clouds of dust" and of the destruction and wreckage all around.

"The dead soldiers seemed to be a part of the general wreckage and it was hard to believe that they had ever been alive let alone living a few minutes or hours before," he read.

He reads of the death smells permeating villages; of torn and mangled bodies lying in the streets; of discovering a young soldier, dead, lying with his head down on a hill so that the blood covered his face until "he looked like a Negro" and of the flies that were "feasting on the blood on his open mouth."

He read of quieter moments too: visits to cathedrals; the night when a comrade played the piano in a sheltered town; the warmth of the people caught up in the holocaust of war; the joy at learning that the war was over.

The Nation's Weather

(Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field)

The weather was clear and dry from the upper Mississippi Valley and Plains states, west to the Pacific, except for a little light rain along the Washington and Oregon coasts.

Heavy snow and hazardous driving warnings were issued for the upper Ohio Valley and north portions of the middle Atlantic states, northeast thru New England.

Hazardous driving warnings are also in effect for the north portions of the Gulf states, the lower Ohio Valley, the Carolinas and Virginia.

Whole gale warnings have been displayed on the coast from Rhode Island thru Maine, with winds increasing to 50 to 70 miles an hour, and tides up to five feet above normal.

Gale warnings were also displayed from North Carolina to Rhode Island with 30 to 50 mile an hour winds and tides up to three feet above normal.

Panama. Rusk went on, but when that is achieved the United States will be prepared to discuss ways of improving U.S.-Panamanian relations and of bettering conditions in Panama itself.

Arrangements for such discussions, it is expected here, will be made by the special mission rushed to Panama Friday by President Johnson. The mission is headed by Assistant Secretary of State Thomas C. Mann with Army Secretary Cyrus R. Vance as a key member. The Panama Canal operation is an Army policy responsibility.

Meanwhile, diplomatic sources reported early today in Panama that the United States and Panama had agreed in principle on a joint authority to keep peace along the Canal Zone border.

In response to questions, Rusk said Castro-Communist elements probably saw in the flag incident an opportunity to stimulate violence. He described the elements as hostile to both Panama and the United States.

He said at the present time, he thinks it is unlikely that the Panamanian situation will be an issue in the American elections.

In her well-trained later years, he served as a ready indicator whether Byrd was in his office. His secretary could see the hall door from her desk, but not the senator's desk.

When Byrd was in his office, Candy always lay at his feet beneath the desk. When he left, she invariably took up her position at the door to await his return.

"I've always been a great lover of dogs," the 76-year-old Byrd said. Dogs have been with him during most of his 30 years in the Senate and before that when he was governor of Virginia.

Byrd recalled that as governor he had a black and white fox terrier which accompanied him daily from the governor's mansion to his office in the state capital.

When he came to the Senate, he had all cocker spaniels — Nicotine, Inky and Happy — before Candy and Pam.

"I've had lots of dogs, but now all told I have only three," Byrd said. "I'd like to have more."

He said he likes hunting dogs and Great Danes, as well as cocker spaniels.

Byrd, a dedicated hiker, usually had his dog along for companionship. Candy and her predecessors were able to build up good mileage in walks and runs since the senator daily takes a

Holland: A year of political and economic stability is the forecast for the Netherlands, although it shares some worry with its Common Market partners over farm policy decisions with France and an open trade war.

Spain and Portugal: Both countries are seeking to increase their industrialization and expand their domestic economies. Spain starts the year with a four-year $5.5 billion development program designed to raise national per capita income from $300 a year to $469. No

Peterson Field Use Reduced
There were 12,837 aircraft movements at Peterson Field during 1963, according to airport officials.

That was just a few more than the 12,650 aircraft movements recorded in 1962.

An aircraft movement is one takeoff and one landing.

The 1963 movements are lower than those recorded in 1961 when Peterson Field was the 51st busiest airport in the nation, according to Federal Aviation Agency figures.

One reason for less aircraft movements during the past two years has been extensive airport improvements, which included resurfacing the northwest-southeast runway and complete reconstruction of the north-south runway. Lengthening of the north-south runway is planned this year.

Airport officials said there was an increase during 1963 in commercial airlines flights but slight drops in private aircraft and Air Force activities.

Automatic sources said it had may not been decided whether the jump-starting group would use Bormilitary or civilian forces to police the border area. It was said earlier that troops from both the United States and Panama would make up the patrol.

There was more violence Sunday at Colon, the Panamanian city on the Caribbean side of the Canal. A Panamanian National Guardsman was killed and two others were wounded, bringing to 34 the death toll since a flag-raising incident in the Canal Zone last Thursday set off the

While the OAS delegation appeared to have set up machinery to keep the peace along the canal, major issues between the United States and Panama remained unsettled.

Panama broke relations with the United States because of the fighting. It renewed demands for revision of the U.S.-Panamanian treaty under which the United States occupies the Canal Zone. Mann and Vance are expected to arrange for discussions of these problems.

In an effort to remove one source of friction, President Johnson's administration warned all U.S. citizens in the Canal Zone that they must abide by a U.S.-Panamanian agreement of last year that whenever flags are flown in the zone, the U.S. and Panamanian flags will be flown side by side.

U.S. high school students in the zone defied this order last week and raised the American flag. Panamanian students retaliated Thursday with a flag-raising of their own in the zone, and the violence mushroomed.

American officials accused Panamanian supporters of Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba of taking a hand in the anti-American demonstrations. President Chian said earlier that Castro had incited the ranks of anti-American demonstrators.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk said in Washington Sunday night that Castro-Communist elements probably saw in the flag incident an opportunity to stimulate violence.

Rusk said the United States cannot afford to pull out of the canal zone and that he has not heard any responsible leader raise that point. He disagreed with any suggestion that the disorders had harmed U.S. Latin-American policy.

Rusk made clear the United States stands ready to open talks with the Panamanian government on Chian's demands for revision of the canal treaty.

The Panama blowup continued to make headlines around the world.

Egyptian newspapers said the Panamanian government should nationalize the canal as President Gamal Abdel Nasser did the Suez Canal in 1956.

The Soviet Communist party organ Pravda said that Latin America today is not what it was in "the grim times of Theodore Roosevelt when Panama became the victim of the notorious 'big stick' policy which was actively pursued by Wall Street with regard to Latin America."

Red China came out with official statements accusing the United States of being an aggressor and pledging support for Panama.

Purses Stolen From Church Cloak Room
Four purses were stolen from a cloak room at the First Southern Baptist Church during Sunday morning services, police reported today. The purses were later found opened with their contents scattered around the floor in the basement of the church, which is located at 1409 Palmer Park Blvd.

Police are searching for a teenage boy who was seen running from the area of the church a short time after the theft. The women were singing in the choir at the time of the theft, which was reported to police by the Rev. Richard D. Yancy.

Carrie Nation Chopped Fame To Prohibition

By JOSEPH GALLOWAY

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — In the winter of 1900-01 a straight-laced little woman with a big cause burst on the American scene like a tornado on the plains of Kansas.

On Dec. 26, 1900, the doors of the Mahan Brothers Bar in the elegant Carey House in Wichita burst open and there stood Carrie Nation with a handful of rocks and a lead pipe.

The bartender was frozen in shock at the sight of a woman in his establishment. Carrie stepped up to the hand-carved cherry wood bar and fired a salvo of rocks at the huge mirror.

Whirling quickly she ripped into a famed oil painting of "Cleopatra at the Bath" and finished up by using the lead pipe on the long rows of bottles of "demon rum."

She left Mahan's bar as quickly as she came, but in those few seconds Carrie Nation helped plant the seeds of national prohibition.

Carrie Nation had a terrific grudge against alcohol. She had married and later divorced a drunkard doctor and carried the emotional scars of that unhappy marriage.

Carrie began her campaign at Mahan's—and learned the dangers involved in it in the next few minutes when she crossed the street to give the same treatment to Jake Eccles' bar.

When Carrie burst through his doors, pipe in hand, he reached beneath the bar and came up with a cocked .45 pistol.

He invited her to "chop way if you can digest bullets."

On the day after Christmas in the first year of a new century Carrie Nation claimed her first victory and met her first defeat. But the idea of destroying saloons had caught the attention of America and Carrie Nation was on her way to becoming a household word.

"The Annals of Kansas, 1901," compiled by the State Historical Society from newspapers of that day, traces Carrie's path as follows:

Jan. 21—Carrie Nation wrecks two more bars at Wichita. The debris is sold for souvenirs.

Jan. 23—Carrie Nation is egged out of Enterprise by a mob of saloon owner's wives who cheerfully pay a fine of $1 each.

Jan. 24—Carrie Nation refuses an offer of $75 per week for a part in "Ten Nights in a Bar Room."

Jan. 26—Carrie Nation is hit over the head with a broomstick when she visits Topeka saloons. Walks through a howling mob to tell her story to the local newspaper.

Jan. 29—Topeka saloon owners buy a gold pin for the woman who hit Carrie Nation over the head with a broomstick.

Feb. 5—Carrie Nation, with a group of "home defenders," demolishes the Senate saloon in Topeka. Women in Harper, Winfield, and Hollenberg put the pressure on saloons.

Feb. 6—Topeka police chief demand saloons close "for sake of peace and for sake of their own safety." Topeka described as a powder keg.

Feb. 7—Carrie Nation, followed by a crowd, visits the Kansas Legislature and speaks to both House and Senate. Citizens smash bars at Holton. A thousand men recruit at Topeka to "purge the city of crime."

Feb. 10—Topeka temperance meeting attracts 3,000. Saloon owners told to get out of town.

Feb. 12—Kansas State Temperance Union and the W.C.T.U. urge a general uprising. At Winfield, mob smashes barrel of whiskey.

Feb. 13—Officers arrest four saloon owners at Coffeyville. Smith Center citizens give saloonkeepers 24 hours to get out of town. Fifteen Goff, Kan., women star smashing saloons but are halted by sheriff. Several persons injured in liquor raid at Winfield. One hundred armed men destroy the Last Chance saloon at Arkansas City. Saloons ordered closed at Sterling, Garden City, Wellington, Perry and Paola.

Feb. 17—Carrie Nation and 500 followers at Topeka destroy one saloon, six bars and a cold storage house.

Feb. 18—War Department Hutchinson druggists turn in liquor permits. Lawrence women help police break confiscated bottles of beer. Carrie Nation in the Topeka jail and refuses to give $2,000 peace bond.

Feb. 19—Twenty masked farmers raid a saloon at Millwood. Mrs. Hudson, wife of the bartender, is killed. The Rev. J. D. Ritchey of Wichita says saloon is part of American social system and should be preserved.

Feb. 20—Atchison ministers, fearing bloodshed, call a temperance meeting. Chanute organizes a law and order league and serves notice on saloon owners and druggists.

Feb. 21—Scott City saloons closed. Eureka convicts and fines saloon owners. Judge releases Carrie Nation in trial for smashing Senate Saloon, ruling she had no malice toward owner.

Carrie and her hatchet became a symbol, though she smashed more bottles with a lead pipe.

Her cause grew. By the time she died, June 9, 1911, the prohibition cause was well on its way.

Spring Styles Also Include At-Home Dresses

NEW YORK (AP)—After a weeklong program of man-catcher clothes for Leap Year, spring style previews here have appropriately closed with bridal and at-home wardrobes for the victors.

Manufacturers expect the new crop of middle-aisles to be a practical lot, despite the high price tags. Putting a worn-once gown in the attic trunk for posterity no longer is considered smart.

Manikins swooping down the runway shed veils, skirts, and stepped out of the coat-like gowns themselves to prove the convertibility and longevity of their costumes.

A trainless, veilless gown immediately became a mobile dance dress for the reception. A coat-like gown peeled off, leaving a social butterfly in a strapless, floor-length sheath.

But none of these rivaled in surprise or practicality the glamorous wedding gown designed by Luis Esteve and shown earlier, where the model stripped down to a pair of slick satin hostess pants.

The young wife of 1964 will look like an Oriental doll. She will shuffle around the kitchen in brilliant orange coolie costumes; run to the door in exotic floral kimono; be the rage of the coffee klatch in slithery silken Mandarin shifts; and the delight of the party for her husband's boss in a long, chiffon with plenty of slits for leg interest.

Musical Plea Is Made for Race Equality

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP)—A fervent musical plea for racial equality is made in "Jericho-Jim Crow" that opened Sunday night in a Greenwich Village church-synagogue.

Sponsors of the program which is to be performed each weekend through February, include the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Congress of Racial Equality and the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee.

A simple, disciplined narrative by Langston Hughes, tracing the cause of the Negro from slavery through crusades for integration, is the frame for a rousing songfest.

A dozen choirs in marvelous voice back up soloists Gilbert Price, Hilda Harris, Jose Attles, Rosalie King and Dorothy Drake. Two dozen melodies from the tenderly traditional to the intensely militant are caroled. The musical is staged in the sanctuary of a building shared since 1954 by the Village Presbyterian Church and Brotherhood Synagogue.

In a season of intensified Negro participation in theatrical offerings, "Jericho-Jim Crow" is one of the most enthralling.

American Taxpayers Support British Socialism

In today's Open Parliament session we have a letter from the British Information Services which objects to some of the views we expressed in an editorial we published November 10 concerning the British program of socialized medicine.

The findings we reported were made by a British research team which contained, among others, Messrs. Harris and Seldon, who have done remarkably fine work in analysing business and social conditions in Britain for a number of years. They are the joint authors of at least two major works on advertising. They are participants in an organization called Institute of Economic Affairs.

The report to which we had access was taken from a British newspaper and is presumed to be as accurate as the British press is accurate.

The British Information Services has provided us with certain statistical evidence which we are in no position to refute. So we will accept it and add it to the statistical evidence provided by Harris and Seldon.

The difficulty with all statistical evidence is that it is subject to interpretation. What we are able to deduce from the statistical report just furnished is that the British government is not planning on making any substantial revision of its socialized medicine policy and practice; and also that the inept administration of these policies and practices has been improved so that now only 45 per cent of the men requiring hospitalization and 54 per cent of the women have to wait between four and five weeks for admission.

The major bone of contention appears to be our claim that the British system of socialized medicine is supported by American taxation. Here we have a flat denial from P. T. Hayman, whose offices are in New York City.

We are going to take issue with Mr. Hayman at this point. He lists, quite properly, that the socialized medicine procedure in Britain is financed through

Some Justifiable Gripes

Some Americans are telling each other how well behaved government bureaucrats are. And without a doubt there are plenty of instances in which the men and women, employed by government in various capacities, do an excellent job, keep themselves in a cheerful frame of mind and offer few if any problems to those who are forced to appeal to them for one thing or another.

But, according to a recent issue of the Wall Street Journal, there is a plethora of instances in which the red tape of bureaucracy confronts a citizen and leaves him helpless and a mass of frustration.

For whether the bureaucrat is kind or cruel, whether he understands his function or doesn't, the fact is that force is behind every trip everyone makes to city, county, state or federal offices. And if the force weren't there, either to be invoked against others or to be ward off one's self, the trip wouldn't be made at all.

We'll quote some of the instances reported by the Wall Street Journal. "For months a group of Pittsburgh residents complained to local officials that a plot near their houses, owned by the Board of Education, had been turned into an unsightly dump. They got action only when they cleared the area themselves last summer and built a three-foot-high barrier across a street with the rubbish."

"A young woman in Chicago several months ago was bombarded with mailed summonses to appear in court to settle a string of unpaid parking tickets. What bothered her was that her car had been stolen, and the violations had occurred when it wasn't in her possession and the

The Wise Use of One's Money

By OSCAR COOLEY
Associate Professor of Economics
Ohio Northern University
When Congress reconvenes, President Johnson will present his budget for the year July 1, 1964 to July 1, 1965, that is, the list of expenditures he wants the Federal government to make. It will be in the neighborhood of $100,000,000,000, perhaps more. This year the government is expected to spend about $99,000,000,000.

Some say the government is spending too much; some, not enough. Who are right? To decide whether a certain expenditure, either of government or of a private firm or individual, should be made or not, one must ask, what would be done with the money if it were not spent in this manner? Would it be used more wisely, that is, in such a way as to increase the spender's wealth and well-being to a greater extent?

If so, the planned expenditure should not be made, for it is an inferior alternative.

In a given year, the people of the United States have a limited amount of money to spend. They want to get their money's worth, that is, the maximum return possible. To spend, knowingly, for less than maximum return is manifestly foolish. So the question arises, what is the best alternative?

Every dollar that the Federal government spends is a dollar taxed from the people. If the people did not have to pay the dollar to the government, they would have it to spend in satisfying their own wants. The question is, in which way do the people get more for their dollar — when it is spent by the government, or when it is spent by themselves?

True, the government can get dollars by printing them, or by "borrowing" from banks. However, when the government spends these synthetic dollars, they purchase goods and services, and now it is these goods and services that the people are deprived of, rather than dollars.

Now the question becomes, in which way do the people get more satisfaction from the use of their goods and services — when these are taken and used by government, or when they make some fibrous glass spare parts for tanks. Having produced the parts before, he knew their exact dimensions. But when the Army specifications arrived, he saw they contained an error of half an inch in the length of the part.

"I pointed out to the contracting officer that the part was too long," says the manufacturer. "But he told me he couldn't do anything about it; it wasn't his responsibility to change the blueprint. I guess I saw five different colonels, majors and what-have-you at the Ordnance Tank - Automotive Command over a period of several weeks.

"But he got no satisfaction. 'So I finally made the parts all wrong,' relates the manufacturer. 'I don't know what they did with them after they got them away.'"

And so it goes. There is something uniquely frustrating about dealing with government, because no matter how arbitrary its agents become, no matter how ridiculous some particular policy or event may prove to be, government has no competitor. You can't just quit and get another firm to work with.

No wonder the war between the citizen and the civil servant continues unabated.

are left in the people's hands to use as they see fit?

So, in whatever way the government gets its dollars for spending, the people must sacrifice either the dollars or the goods and services they represent. The government has no source from which it can draw wealth which the people do not have to give up.

President Johnson's budget will probably contain a few hundred millions for power dams and reclamation projects. The vital question to be debated is, will a hundred million spent to build the XYZ project in Colorado benefit the people of the United States more, or less, than a hundred million left in the pockets of taxpayers, to be spent or saved and invested by them at their own discretion.

Let us say you are an individual taxpayer from whom will be taxed $10 of the $100,000,000,000 required for the XYZ project. You have a fair idea of the worth of $10 to you — of the many things you would like to do with $10. If left to your own devices, would you voluntarily contribute $10 to the cause of building this power and water project in Colorado? Or would you spend the $10 for textbooks for your child, a tire for your car, a sack of groceries, or a deposit slip in a savings — and loan which will lend it to help someone build a home? It is your $10, after all. Who else is better qualified to say what use of the $10 will bring you the largest dividend of satisfactions? Let us say you are a stockholder in a corporation from which will be taxed $5,000 of the $100,000,000 required for the XYZ project. If left free to decide, would your board of directors choose to invest that $5,000 in a power-water project in Colorado? Or would they deem it better used to buy a new machine, or hire another man, either of which would enable the firm to produce more goods, more cheaply?

It is entirely possible for individuals and firms to finance power dams by voluntary investment. The fact that a particular dam has not been projected and financed in this way is evidence that it is not the most promising investment available.

The same principle applies to all other government expenditures, which, being financed out of tax revenue, may be looked upon as forced investments. Are you getting maximum return out of your forced investment in Federal subsidies to farmers, airlines, shipbuilders, etc.? And what of your dollars the government's investing in the moon project?

If this is to continue a free country — a country in which each person is to have his own earnings, channeling them into the use which he considers will be most fruitful, government budgets will be examined critically, always with the question, is there a better alternative way in which to spend this money?

Thriving on Disaster

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD
A government-owned and controlled dam in the Baldwin Hills area of Los Angeles sprung a huge leak and the resulting flood caused death, injury and tremendous property damage, according to newspaper and radio reports.

The city fathers sprang into action.

The city council had refused to appropriate funds for the office of civil defense or whatever it's called in Los Angeles. When the disaster hit, the Mayor and his minions used it as a springboard to demand funds for the civilian defense agency and the hue and cry went on.

After that, the boys managed to get busy at the task of diverting attention from the responsibility of the government agency or agencies involved. Underground atomic testing in Nevada was blamed for the disaster. No one mentioned natural earth tremors because the Baldwin Hills area was known to be in a fault area long before the dam was constructed.

Sure, the city intended to begin clean-up operations immediately but wished to obtain waivers of responsibility from property owners to avoid lawsuits in case the clean-up operations caused further property damage. This reminded me of the clean-up operation here in Chlopy during which a county employee scraped up large piles of earth beside our motel with such efficiency and planning as to create a path for three feet of water to run into my office the next time it rained. It made me wonder if any of the property owners were foolish enough to sign the waivers but I suppose they did, hoping to get something for nothing from the city government which was responsible for the disaster in the first place, a line of thinking which makes no sense to me.

Well, the President of the government of the United States proclaimed the disaster, which means that all of the people will be taxed to pay for damage caused by the breaking of a dam owned and controlled by Los Angeles. Subsequent actions will involve hundreds if not thousands of people who draw pay from various agencies of government in the city, county, state and in the federal government.

Naturally, the city fathers will investigate and the county overlord will investigate and the state legislature will probably hold hearings and also investigate as they did so many years ago when the St. Francis Dam broke. If the damage amounts to as much as $50 million dollars, you can depend upon it that government will spend two or three times that much in time and travel spent on investigating, hearings, meetings and paper work. Eventually, many of the people who lost their homes and cars and belongings will become so disgusted they will refuse to attend any more hearings and meetings and the hue and cry will gradually diminish until it dies.

In the meantime, you can bet on it that government will increase in size and cost and power because of the disaster for which it is the responsible agency. Governments grow and thrive upon the disasters caused by government.

This is a subject which deserves your intelligent consideration. A rise in the crime rate increases the size and cost and the power of government. Almost any type of disaster causes an increase in the size and cost and power of government. Air travel is under government control and any increase in plane accidents is a boon to the government agencies involved, it gives those agencies an opportunity to demand a greater share of the plunder which has been stolen from the earners.

There are other dams in and around Los Angeles. People have lived under the shadow of the Hollywood Dam for years. I guess they like to live dangerously. I certainly hope it never breaks up.

Last spring, I discovered how much I distrust government. We were fishing just south of Davis Dam. I looked at

BRITISH 'MEDICARE'

To the Editor:

I have read your article on "Britain's Medicare Program" in the Gazette-Telegraph of November 10, with interest, and should like, if I may, to comment on it.

The National Health Service is financed in three ways: 1) out of the national taxation; 2) with a contribution of about one-seventh of the total cost from a National Health Service weekly contribution paid by all active members of the population; 3) from local taxation. The cost of the N.H.S. amounts to about 3 1/2 per cent of the total national income. It is not, therefore, "sustained in part by taxes from Americans."

I am enclosing a paper describing the system of payments to doctors under the National Health Service.

You may be interested to know the British Medical Association's views on the General Practitioners' Association, which is the organization I believe you have in mind when you refer to the revolt of family doctors. These are expressed in a leading article in the British Medical Journal of October 19, 1963, when the journal gave the Association no welcome. It said that it is unfortunate that the emphasis of Dr. Biss' manifesto (Dr. Gerald Biss, chairman of the G. P. A.) is on pay, and felt that this is not the time to have yet another Association working on behalf of doctors. It suggests that "Dr. Biss and his colleagues should tread the well-worn democratic path by their sympathizers elected as representatives to the Conference of Representatives of Local Medical Committees, and from there to the General Medical Services Committee" (of the B. M. A.).

The waiting time for admission to hospitals is not as long as it would appear to be from the information given in your article. About 55 per cent of men, and 46 per cent of the women needing hospitalization are admitted immediately. The median waiting time, between four and five weeks, is slightly less for men than for women. Waiting time varies to some extent according to the nature of the disease for which hospitalization is required. The majority of cancer patients, for example, are admitted within a week.

The number of doctors in general practice rose by 10 per cent in the years 1952-1961 — an average increase of 240 a year. Senior medical staffs of hospitals increased by 2,000 or 27 per cent, the junior medical staff increased by 3,200 or 43 per cent, over the period 1950-61. An analysis of figures for graduates from medical schools shows that no great or unusual number have emigrated. Data from a dozen medical schools in London and the provinces shows that of British doctors who graduated from them during the 1950's the proportion who are at present resident abroad is between 6 and 7 per cent.

The British Medical Association's report on "Recruitment to the Medical Profession," issued in May, 1962 expressed the opinion that it seems unlikely that the net figure of British doctors emigrating has increased very substantially and casts doubt on the extent to which this level of emigration could cause a shortage of doctors in Britain.

INSTITUTIONS BILL

To the Editor:

The El Paso County Chapter for Retarded Children, Inc., is seriously concerned about the ruling of Attorney General Duke Dunbar in regard to the financial demands on relatives of patients in state institutions.

We understand that a new bill is to be introduced in the short session of the state legislature which, among other changes, would limit these charges to the family's ability to pay. "Ability to pay" seems to us a treacherous phrase. A family on welfare would pay nothing. A well-to-do family would expect to pay the full amount. What about the middle income family?

Take the case of John Doe. He is a hardworking professional man with several children. A good citizen, he works hard for his school, church, and community. He pays his taxes and bills promptly and is anxious to give his children the college education he has had and which they need. Does this ability-to-pay ruling mean that a potentially useful child must be denied a college education, law school, medical school, etc., because his parents must pay for the care of an incompetent child?

Suppose the child is returned to the family because they cannot pay the charges. The care of a retarded child in many cases has proved such a strain that families have broken down and some mothers have collapsed and been sent to mental hospitals. Nothing is gained in that case.

Or suppose the family finds a cheaper boarding home to care for the retarded person. Unless such boarding homes are inspected and evaluated, they can become a source of real trouble.

The El Paso County Chapter for Retarded Children, Inc., is working toward the development of coordinated community services for the retarded child and his family, but the community center where a retarded person could spend a twelve-hour day is still a long way off. When that time comes, many families will be able to keep their children in the community. However, we will always need some state training schools and of course beds for the helpless.

We know that Governor Love is interested in these problems and can surely work out a fair new law which will not impoverish our conscientious citizens.

Nation's Press

Suddenly Found Millions In Foreign Aid Treasury

From the Ft. Lauderdale (Fla.) News

After all the wailing and gnashing of teeth by President Johnson and his foreign aid supporters over the so-called damaging fund slashes Congress finally got around to enacting this week, it is now revealed that the legislators and the taxpayers still got played for suckers in the deal.

Quite conveniently, the foreign aid spenders had a little ace up their sleeves they didn't pull out until a new foreign aid appropriations bill was steamrolled through a balky Congress.

The ace was a neat little $669 million in unspent and uncommitted funds which were left over from previous appropriations and which AID officials presumably didn't discover until they started surveying the much-publicized damage done when Congress slashed $1.5 billion from the $4.5 billion in new funds the AID spenders wanted.

So now it turns out that despite all the crocodile tears that were shed, the foreign aid spenders will be able to go on handing out our money in just the same overly generous manner they have become accustomed to in past years.

One would have to be very naive, indeed, to believe the cock and bull story that AID officials didn't know about this windfall until after the new foreign aid appropriation bill was approved. Even in spend-happy Washington it is a bit difficult to lose track of $669 million, and if anyone actually does believe the foreign aid spenders weren't aware of the fact they had these unspent and uncommitted funds lying around, it only provides further proof of the sloppy and wasteful manner in which the program is being conducted.

The suddenly discovered surplus will come as no surprise to members of the House and Senate who had long argued that if no new money was appropriated for foreign aid this time around, the program could still continue at almost its present level from the great backlog of funds still unspent from previous appropriations. Rep. Otto Passman claimed this backlog was in the neighborhood of $7 billion but AID officials, even while admitting Rep. Passman might be correct, insisted all this money, although still unspent, had been earmarked for projects already approved but not yet launched.

Had the truth of this matter been laid before the Congress there is little question but that even greater slashes would have been made in the program than eventually were made. But neither Congress nor the taxpayers were told the full truth, and now we are expected to believe that AID officials didn't know about this surplus either until they suddenly discovered it after the new aid bill cleared the Congress.

This kind of business aptly illustrates why Congress and the taxpayers have become thoroughly disillusioned with this whole program. Even President Johnson admits the program must be re-analyzed and sharply improved before any further money requests are put before the Congress. Yet whom did Mr. Johnson select to make the re-analysis and recommend the improvements?

He made the same mistake other Presidents have made in packing his appointed study committee with State Department personnel and others who have long favored the program and who can hardly be expected to find much fault with their own baby.

We doubt that this new committee will look at recent Treasury statements which clearly point out the necessity for big retrenchments in some of our spending programs. The statement of last Dec. 27, for instance, reveals that in the year just past our national debt increased by almost $6 billion despite the fact government revenue increased by over $3 billion.

The debt now stands at almost $310 billion. And while the debt keeps climbing our gold supply keeps falling as clearly indicated by the fact the Treasury reported a loss of over $400 million in our gold reserves from December 27, 1962, to the same date in 1963.

Much of this gold loss can be directly attributed to our wasteful and badly mismanaged foreign aid program. It is one of the most unpopular spending programs among the taxpayers that the Washington bureaucrats have ever devised. It is propagandized with false facts and false promises, yet when Congress tries to chop it down to proper size it is subjected to the pressure kind of arm-twisting pressure to keep it going with added billions every year.

It is sickening enough to see our money spent in reckless and wasteful manner right here at home. But it is downright nauseating to witness the manner in which it is being thrown away overseas, and particularly when AID officials either deliberately distort their needs or don't have a bookkeeping system adequate enough to tell them just how much they have laying around in unspent and uncommitted funds.

Question Box

We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.

Question No. 411: "How does government housing harm those who live in the government housing?"

Answer: It does them moral harm because it makes them lose their self-reliance. They abandon individual responsibility. They deny that man should live by the sweat of his brow. They deny that men should reap what they sow. If a man sows indolence and improvidence he shouldn't have the fruits of other people's labor. In fact, they are getting things for less than cost and making other people help pay for it who involuntarily are deprived of what they need to take care of their own family and enjoy the fruits of their labor.

In short, it makes recipients of government housing or any other subsidy think that they are better than other people; that they have rights to other people's property because it is made legal. They have no moral standard that we can think of.

Thus, subsidized housing, subsidized farming, subsidized minimum wages, and subsidized schools all degrade those that are regarded as "beneficiaries." Instead of being beneficial to them, it is harmful to them in the long run.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

Weather News Getting Ever More Popular

By WARD CANNEL
NEW YORK (NEA) — Can it be that the national neurosis—climachondria — has finally slipped across the thin line beyond help?

A spot check reveals that the U.S. household thermometer industry is now producing about 40 million thermometers each year—more than enough in five years for every jamb, sill and breezeway in the country, and no sign of anything but increasing output.

A stop watch on major television news shows proves conclusively that at least three times more minutes are devoted to the weather picture than to any other event of the day.

About one telephone call in every 150 is made for a weather report, despite the U.S. Weather Bureau's admission that it is completely accurate only about 62 per cent of the time.

A tour of larger housewares departments turns up a fandang of home weather stations—thermometer, barometer, humidity gauge—style to fit into federal gilt-and-scroll mirrors, American eagles, coin banks, desk sets, electric light switch plates.

Fancier hardware shops are showing rapidly rising sales of home hygrometers: a combination of two thermometers and a water bath that will show, after a bit of fanning and calculation, the relative humidity index and a scientifically meaningless number called the discomfort index.

Other manufacturers — from motor oil refineries to frozen food packagers—are finding that if they offer dealers nicely styled thermometers as a premium, sales will increase.

Display card printers and local storekeepers are turning increasingly to thermometers as the extra gimmick to make their giveaway advertising card more effective.

Banks in commercial areas are drawing potential customers with windows filled with large and important-looking dials that show temperature, humidity, wind direction and velocity.

New Fashions In Boat Wear To Be Shown

By JACK WOLISTON

United Press International Among exhibits at the 1964 boat shows will be the "what's new" in boatwear fashions—and they are many and varied.

They range from shoes to shorts to sweaters—and even to a "sombrero," which doesn't seem to fit into the nautical picture, but is a broad-brimmed top-piece designed for protection from the hot summer sun.

Colors are bright and gay, solids, plaids and stripes. Many are purely for near-the-water wear, while others are more practical.

Among the latter is an innovation called the ONOFF sleeves. Introduced by Mighty Mac of Gloucester, it is designed for the active sportsman. For cool weather, it provides a long-sleeved garment. As the day warms, the sleeves may be snapped off, making one jacket serve for the day-long excursion in changing weather.

Another 1964 introduction is the Tuna Tunic which incorporates such fashion features as drop shoulders, pack pockets and insert slides. It ties around the waist and has a protective hood. Available in a wide variety of fabrics and colors, the 100 per cent American wool version is designed for warmth and comfort.

Eta Epsilons Meet at Loop

Eta Epsilon Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha met at the Loop Cafe last week for a program entitled, "The Outer You," conducted by Mrs. H. E. Holm, on styles, walking, talking, sitting and budgeting.

The next meeting will be held at the Timbers, 2888 Airport Rd. with Betty Dobbs as hostess and Betty Higgins presenting the program on interior decorating. Members may bring floor plans of their own homes for problem discussions.

Banquet to Precede Rainbow Installation

Rainbow Girls will have a banquet at 6 p.m. Saturday at the Masonic Temple followed by public installation at 7:30 p.m.

Artist Advances Mosaic Work

By KENNETH INOUE

United Press International LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UPI) —The ancient art of making mosaics is having a renaissance.

A talented artist and educator is playing a large role in making mosaic an integral part of contemporary architecture—as the master craftsmen in Italy did in cathedrals and townhouses for noblemen 800 years ago.

Joseph Young, a successful and prolific artisan whose works are found in scores of municipal, religious, educational and commercial structures throughout the nation, is regarded as one of the prime movers in popularizing and fusing art with architecture and "making walls come alive with promise and meaning."

Aware of the increasing popularity of the art of making mosaics—and the likelihood of accompanying pitfalls, Young guides the movement along professional lines via his latest book, "Mosaics: Principles and Practice" (Reinhold).

The book encompasses all the introductory material of Young's earlier book, "Course in Making Mosaics," and adds a wider scope. It is both a textbook and guide to beginners and advanced practitioners.

Young says he is disturbed by the rash of unqualified literature on mosaics. He says generally many authors fail to recognize that "design and execution are an inseparable creative process."

Young feels that "if more inspired expressions in mosaics are to occur in the future, it is to the educator that we must look."

Young, a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., served in World War II. Later, he turned his "intense certainty" to the study of making mosaics. Among his principal commissions: a cantilevered mural for the Los Angeles City Police Building, foyer murals for Temple Emanuel in Beverly Hills, Calif., a war memorial fresco for Boston Museum School of Fine Arts, a mural for Loyola College in Los Angeles and a huge mural for the Los Angeles Country Hall of Records.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q 1—As South you hold:
Spades, A-10-4; Hearts, A-K-J-10-6; Diamonds, K-10-8-7-6.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 Hrt. Pass 1 N.T. Pass

What do you bid now?
A—Two diamonds. No more aggressive action would be justified at this point. Partner's distribution is still an unknown factor and, until a fit is found, we can't be certain how much this hand will produce.

Q 2—As South you hold:
Spades, A-10-7-2; Hearts, A-K-J-10-6; Diamonds, J-10-7-4; Clubs, Q-10-7-2.

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass Pass Pass 1 Hrt.
Pass 1 Spd. Pass 1 N.T.
Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Two no trump. While we prefer, wherever possible, to take the pressure off partner, we have not sufficient values in this case to do so, having only 11 points in high cards. The singleton heart is also a bearish influence. If partner does not go on to three, the play for game should not be very good.

Q 3—As South you hold:
Spades, K-J-6-2; Hearts, J-7-5; Diamonds, A-Q-9-4; Clubs, 6-4.

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass 1 Dia. Pass 1 Spd.
Pass 2 Hrts. Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Four diamonds. A strong bid is in order. Partner's two heart bid constitutes a so-called "reverse" and should be based on at least 19 points. Your hand is worth 12 points in support of diamonds. A slam is therefore, not remote and it is recommended that the display of strength be made below the game level.

Q 4—As South you hold:
Spades, K-8-4-3; Hearts, 5-4; Diamonds, 10-5-4; Clubs, K-10-5-2.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 Clb. Pass 1 Spd. Pass
3 Spds. Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Four spades. While this hand contains the minimum in high cards you should carry on, though partner's raise is not forcing. The club fit is the determining factor. Reverse the hearts and clubs and a doubtful situation would exist.

Q 5—Opponents have 60 part score and as South you hold:
Spades, K-9-7-5-3; Hearts, 6-2; Diamonds, A-9-3; Clubs, 10-5-1.

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 N.T. Pass Pass Dbl.
Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Two spades. Under normal conditions, holding more than six points, you should pass the no trump bid for penalties, but in this particular case it pays to be a little more cautious. Since one no trump puts the enemy "out," partner may have stretched a point to double in order to put up some sort of fight. You should, therefore, keep your powder dry by bidding two spades.

Q 6—As South you hold:
Spades, 6-2; Hearts, A-K-10-8-8; Diamonds, 7-5-3; Clubs, K-9-5.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 Clb. Pass 1 Hrt. 1 Spd.
1 N.T. Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Partner has announced a strong hand by making a free bid of one no trump after the adverse spade bid. The suggested call is a raise of the no trump. With a timid partner perhaps to three no trump, with

The Women's Fault?

DEAR ABBY: Why do so many women object to a man growing a beard? I am sure that the good Lord didn't put hair on the faces of men so that a razor company could sponsor boxing matches. And you line right up alongside the rest of the women and say, "If the beard scratches — scratch him!" Men parted with their beards about the same time women were given the right to vote and permitted to drive automobiles (you can do neither intelligently) but knowing how you women stick together I'll bet ten bucks this never sees print. —TED W.

DEAR TED: You lose! Now send that ten bucks to the Cancer Society.

DEAR ABBY: I've never seen a problem like ours in your column, and hope you can help us. Three years ago my husband accidentally hit a boy on a bicycle, and the boy was killed instantly. It was a foggy night, the boy darted out in front of the car, and my husband was not exceeding the speed limit, so no charges were brought against him. He was so heart-most partners a raise to two no-trump would suffice.

Q 7—As South you hold:
Spades, 8; Hearts, Q-J-8-6; Diamonds, A-9-7-4-3; Clubs, K-10-5-2.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 Clb. Pass 1 Dia. Pass
2 N.T. Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A—Three hearts. This hand has splendid distributional values, and if a good suit can be found a slam is not at all remote. Partner's jump to two no-trump does not deny possession of a four card heart suit and the temporizing bid is strongly recommended.

Q 8—As South you hold:
Spades, A-8-4; Hearts, A-K-8-3; Diamonds, A-J-7; Clubs, Q-J-8.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 Clb. Pass 1 Dia. Pass
2 N.T. Pass 3 Clbs. Pass

What do you bid now?
A—Three hearts. The four card major which you suppressed on the first round should be announced at this point. This is preferable to showing the diamond support. If the bidding progresses constructively, diamond support may be shown belatedly.

CHICAGO (UPI) — In selecting a comfortable mattress, it's what you can't see that is most important. Beautiful mattress ticking may please the eye, but you should know the inside story — to be in the technical know.

Bonnell type innerspring construction, one of the earliest all-steel designs, is composed of spirals with the ends knotted to hold them in place, and helical coils similar to the spirals used on school notebooks.

Bonnell innersprings, the least expensive to make, also are the most widely used. They are somewhat rigid and unyielding to body contours. The knotted spiral coils have a tendency to turn in time, throwing the mattress out of shape.

Marshall spring — construction consists of cylinder-shaped springs tied into individual cloth pockets. Theoretically, each spring works independently, but there is wear and tear on the cloth pockets, causing them to weaken and break loose.

Karr spring construction consists of die-formed spiral coils joined by special pivot hinges which eliminate knots and permit a flexible surface action. The number of springs in a mattress is not a measure of comfort. In a well-made mattress, coil count can be as low as 185 for a full-size medium-priced unit to as high as 300 for a top-priced full-size mattress.

The distribution of coils is important, since more support is needed for the area from the shoulders to the thighs. The firmness of a mattress is difficult to determine unless you lie on it, but generally weight is a major consideration.

If you are under 150 pounds, you'll probably be most comfortable on an average — firmness or even a "soft" mattress. If you are between 150 and 200 pounds, you should choose a regular or medium-firm mattress.

An extra firm mattress is advised for people who weigh more than 200 pounds.

Family Tree Has Deep Roots

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The American Elder Society conducted its first annual family reunion after obtaining a non-profit charter in Missouri.

The Society includes 80 Elder-named members. The family-tree research society is looking for more members, according to Thomas C. Etter of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa., the president.

Dale Etter, church editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, is the Society's business manager. Henry R. Etter of Bloomington, Ill. and Evelyn Etter of Springfield, Ill. are directors.

Dale Etter says the family dates back to about half a dozen Etters who came to this country from Switzerland around 1735. Most American Etters, he said, are descendants of the early Etter settlers, but others have migrated from Europe and settled in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks

When washing blankets, I always shake out the dust before wetting them. (People who are lucky enough to have dryers should put them in the dryer without heat and tumble them to remove loose soil). I find it far better to hand-wash a blanket than to use my washing machine. The bathtub, washtub, or my kitchen sink (if it is a small blanket) is much better.

I fill up the bathtub with lukewarm suds (enough to cover the blanket), and put the blanket gently into the warm suds. I use my plumber's friend to massage the blanket up and down — pull the plug out of the tub and let the water drain out. Then I gently squeeze the water from the blanket. Never twist or wring.

I repeat this procedure a second time and then rinse well in lukewarm water two or three times.

Since I found that our friend vinegar makes a lovely rinse water for my wool sweaters, I now rinse the blankets in diluted vinegar water, at least one cup of vinegar to a tub of water. To remove the water from the blanket I fold it in quarters, roll it up like a rolling pin and gently squeeze out the excess water while the blanket is still in the tub.

I hang the blankets over parallel lines in the "shade", gently shaking them out so that they are in shape. Just before they are dry I remove them, shake them real hard and turn them over. This gives them a beautiful fluff. So does a slight brushing with a clean vegetable brush or whisk broom.

When all my blankets are dry I gently steam the satin bindings.

I have washed rayon, wool and synthetic blankets by this method and have always had excellent results.

The next time you pour coffee, feed the second cup of it for me. I'll do the same — Love, Heloise

Dear Heloise

To get a real good crease in your boy's trousers, take a large paper bag, wet it with cold water, wring it out (the bag will not tear) and use this as your pressing cloth. The crease will be knife sharp. —A Reader

It works! —Heloise

Dear Heloise

If you want your little girl's nylon dresses to really perk up — starch them with dry powdered milk.

I use one cup of dry milk to one half gallon of water. Always let these drip dry. They come out looking like new. This method also works beautifully on nylon and dacron curtains. —A Reader

It's amazing but this works beautifully. —Heloise

Dear Heloise

On that miracle-working nylon net of yours! I was washing the woodwork in the kitchen and here is how I made my job easier.

I took a 12-inch square of your net and folded it until it was the same length as my sponge was wide, then wrapped it around the sponge and fastened it to the sponge itself with some basting thread.

The wall in the back of my stove (which always was a nuisance) needed only a once-over: Heloise's net sponge was slick as a whistle for this job.

By putting the net all the way around the sponge you can just keep turning the sponge over for clean surfaces. This also saves getting on and off that step stool so many times. —B. H.

To keep salt from clogging in the container, never shake directly over hot food. The steam rising from the foods tends to dampen the contents of the container and the next time it will not pour or shake freely. Measure or shake the contents into a spoon, then add to your cooking foods.

Also, if the spices and seasonings are stored too near the stove the heating or cooling off of the cans will eventually cause enough sweating to clog up the insides. —Mrs. C. M.

NEW FOOD PROCESSING

The American food industries are constantly developing new processes and products. A 16-ounce steak comes out of a freeze-drying chamber weighing only 4 ounces. It is dehydrated and has the advantage of being light in weight for shipment. As one authority said, "Why ship water from Chicago to Los Angeles?"

The steak is slightly pale in color and there is very little change in its size or shape. It can be kept for years without refrigeration, provided it is packed properly. And the juice returns when water is added just before cooking. How does it get this way? Freeze-drying is a process in which moisture is removed under vacuum while the meat is in a frozen state. Under the circumstances the liquid leaves the tissues as vapor and not water.

Dry soup mixes are on the market. Some of the meat ingredients are freeze-dried, whereas others are dehydrated by conventional methods. Several months ago I had freeze-dried shrimps and other instant foods while fishing. These are popular among hunters, campers, and picnickers. The reason, "Why lug that extra water all over?"

The main objection to these new processes is the extra expense. Shipping costs more than offset this, especially for those living far from the source of food. The army has demonstrated that the end result is a high quality nutritious food. The vitamin and mineral content depends upon the raw product, processing temperatures, and how it is packaged.

We are asked frequently about ProTen, Swift's new meat tenderizing process. Papain, derived from papaya plant, is injected into the vein of a cow or steer just before the animal is killed. This enzyme finds its way into the meat where it remains until activated by heat (110 degrees to 185 degrees F.) which usually takes place in the kitchen. Less than 2 micrograms per pound of meat does the trick and it is harmless and does not alter the nutritional value of the steak or chops. Prolonged cooking is not recommended because it leaves the meat somewhat mushy. In time they hope to use bromelin, a similar enzyme, from pineapple. It has the advantage of being activated at lower temperatures.

No. I wish it were this simple. In general, diet has nothing to do with the common types of arthritis.

QUESTION: Isn't it a little ridiculous to believe that we who live on this earth planet are unique, when we are just a little speck in the universe? Why should we think we are the only planet that God is concerned with? —U. H.

ANSWER: Yours is a logical, natural question, but by no means a new one. David said: "When I consider the heavens, the work of Thy fingers, the moon and stars . . . what is man that Thou art mindful of him?"

Such a question if not properly answered leads to frustration. Asking questions is useless unless helpful answers can be discovered.

This planet may be small, but it doesn't necessarily follow that it is not important. One of God's fascinating characteristics is that He is concerned with things which we call small and insignificant. Jesus said: "Are not two sparrows sold for a farthing? and one of them shall not fall on the ground without your Father . . . Fear ye not therefore, ye are of more value than many sparrows."

We judge things by bigness, but it is evident that God works on a different principle. He thinks not of what we are but of what we may become with His aid. That is why, when He saw our plight, He came down to this planet and at great cost, and purchased our redemption. This earth may be just a speck in the universe, but God is in-

SANATORIUM STAY

L. R. writes: Nowadays, does a person who gets tuberculosis have to stay in a hospital six months?

Reply

The period of time varies. Some stay less than six months and others, longer. Since the introduction of chemotherapy, prolonged sanatorium care rarely is needed.

NECK NODES

H. H. writes: Do enlarged lymph nodes at the back of a baby's neck mean leukemia?

Reply

This is one possibility but head colds, German measles, ear infections, and infectious mononucleosis also lead to enlarged neck glands.

CITE DANGER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mail-order schools of practical nursing are still turning out would-be nurses who can do more harm than good, according to a survey by "Medical Tribune," a physician's newspaper.

Lacking clinical experience, graduates of correspondence nursing schools are not licensed and cannot qualify for license examination, the survey showed. The graduates, however, wear uniforms and other identifying marks of the certified, licensed practical nurse. The trouble: physicians encountering them in private homes may thus be misled and entrust the pseudo-professionals with tasks they are unable to perform.

Steven Erickson Awarded God and Country Badge

The highly coveted God and Country Badge was awarded to Boy Scout Steven Erickson 15-year-old son of Chief Warrant Officer and Mrs. Reidar A. Erickson, during Sunday worship in Ft. Carson's Chapel 12.

Maj. Gen. John A. Heintges, post and division commander, presented the badge to the Life Scout. It was the first such honor he had ever presented. Gen. Heintges told the congregation.

Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Andrew L. Johnson, pointed out that it was the first Protestant award presented at the mountain post.

He said that Steven was the only one of 35 candidates to complete the required work which had purposely been made difficult. A Colorado Springs board passed Steven at the end of a year's work, which included daily devotions, Bible study and at least one act of special Christian helpfulness every day.

Steven, who is interested in electrical engineering, is a sophomore at Fountain-Ft. Carson High School, and was on the "B" football squad. He is a junior assistant scoutmaster of Troop 64 and is working toward the coveted Eagle rank.

Army Forts Take Part in Program Of Dentistry

For 15 months ending Nov. 30, 6,000 troops at Ft. Carson and Ft. Hood, took part in a study designed to evaluate methods being used in the Army's Preventive Dentistry program.

This study, initiated by the Office of the Surgeon General in May 1962, was entitled "Preventive Dentistry Evaluation Study."

Six specially trained doctors from various posts reported here TTY at specific intervals during the period of study to collect necessary data for evaluation.

It is expected that the study will clearly demonstrate the value of prevention as compared to the treatment and repair, sometimes futile, of diseased mouths.

Project officer at Ft. Carson was Capt. John R. Wallace. Prevention in dentistry has the same goal as in any other field: interception of trouble before it begins. The concept of the Army's preventive program hinges on efforts to motivate the patient to care for himself.

Prevention today is built around an initial cleaning and stannous fluoride application with constant chairside instruction and observations in oral hygiene habits.

During the entire period of treatment, constant attention is given to the maintenance of the patient's oral hygiene. After all treatment is completed and the patient is maintaining effective oral hygiene, he is given a follow-up appointment commensurate with his dental status.

In the Ft. Carson study, half of the patients received the new treatment — the other half received standard, 50 year old practices. The clinical impression gained during the study indicates the overwhelming efficiency of preventive concepts as opposed to conventional treatment methods.

Carson Hospital Will Hold Cancer Clinic

Ft. Carson's U.S. Army Hospital will hold a Cancer Detection Clinic for female dependents on Feb. 11. Women will be seen by appointment, beginning at 1 p.m. and will report to the Surgical Clinic, Bldg. 6237.

Freedom School Announces 1964 Session Schedule

Twelve sessions including a workshop and three executive sessions are set for the 1964 schedule at the Freedom School according to the annual bulletin which has just been published.

The bulletin also announced that applications for scholarships to any of the two-week comprehensive course sessions which begin May 31, are now being accepted by school officials.

The scholarships will be awarded on the basis of competitive examinations. The examinations will be mailed to applicants beginning January 15.

All competitive examinations will be judged the week of April 5 and awards will be announced shortly afterwards. All applications for the scholarship examinations must be received by the school prior to March 26.

The scholarships include full tuition, room and board and materials for the two-week session.

The comprehensive course provides general instruction for individuals "of mature outlook who wish to explore and discuss some of the basic questions of our time."

"Our heritage of individual liberty and the philosophy of freedom and free enterprise are openly discussed," the bulletin says of the course. "This course is particularly useful for instructors, ministers, editors, commentators, columnists — those concerned with the dissemination of ideas. It is also well adapted for the businessman or for serious-minded students generally."

The comprehensive course is open to both men and women, regardless of academic rating "who are willing to work and apply themselves in pursuit of philosophic and economic truths."

The Executive session, which is a six-day session scheduled for May 24-30, Sept. 13-19 and Oct. 4-10, is a definitive course of instruction reserved for executives only.

Enrollment is limited. The course is more intensive than the comprehensive course and places special emphasis upon economic problems to be found in today's business and industrial operations.

Interested executives may write for an illustrated booklet explaining the sessions. The 1964 Workshop is a four-day seminar reserved for graduates of the Freedom School. The topic for this year's session, which will be held July 27 to Aug. 1, is Education in a Free Society.

To be considered will be such phases of the topic as "Can education occur without conditioning?" "Can an adequate school system exist without taxation?" "Is there an advantage in non-conformity?" "The Ideal College," etc.

A $100 prize will be awarded for the best paper turned in during the session and the enrollment fee will be refunded to the winning author. There are no scholarships available for the workshop.

Students enrolling in any of the courses will be picked up at the Antlers Hotel and returned to Colorado Springs at the end of the session.

Sessions in the Comprehensive Course are scheduled as follows:

May 31 to June 12; June 14 to June 26; June 28 to July 10; July 12 to July 24; Aug. 2 to 14; Aug. 16 to 28; Aug. 30 to Sept. 11 and Sept. 20 to Oct. 2.

During the 1963 summer session.

Dunbar Terms Traffic Signs Life Savers

Six life-savers — That's what the nation's traffic signs are, Attorney General Duke W. Dunbar, chairman, Colorado Highway Safety Council said today.

"Traffic signs," he said, speaking in behalf of the Colorado Highway Safety Council's Signs of Life program, "are designed to protect human life. It is essential motorists know the Signs of Life by sight — and obey them without fail."

"Traffic signs represent the expert thinking of traffic engineers and safety officials. The signs are designed for your protection."

Dunbar urged motorists to learn these six traffic signs by shape so they can react to them instantly on sight.

Octagon - Stop. Rectangle - Regulation. Diamond - Caution. Triangle - Yield. Round - Railroad. Crossbuck - railroad crossing.

tion, 143 students were enrolled in the Freedom School. In its first year of operation, 26 students were enrolled.

A total of 44 persons attended the workshop and the two three-day seminars held last year. The growth of the school academically was matched by its physical growth.

In March, 206 acres of meadow-land were added to the 320 acres that originally comprised the campus. This land adjoins the eastern boundaries of the school and provides a mile of frontage road along Perry Park Road.

This land is expected to play a major role in the location and development of Rampart College.

A new building was completed in 1963. Known as Falcon Lair, the building is hexagonal in shape with a rectangular building connecting in the rear.

Built of logs, the focal point is a huge hexagonal stone fireplace in the center of a large room which serves as living room-lounge in which students can relax and informal entertainment and discussion take place. The building includes a modern kitchen and other facilities.

The building in the rear contains living accommodations for the president and his family and a large open porch extends from the north and east sides of the building.

Falconwood Lodge, which now serves as a dining room and recreation room for students, was also remodeled during the year.

Home Damaged As Heater Starts Blaze

Fire reported to have been caused by a circulating heater in a recreation room destroyed the recreation room and contents and damaged the kitchen and dining room at the home of Lloyd Ciseros on Bula Drive, east of Colorado Springs, Sunday. A considerable amount of smoke damage also occurred.

The Colorado Springs fire department received an alarm at 7:35 p.m. and Company 4, which made the run, put out the fire. Although the house is outside of the city limits it is in a borderline area where annexation is considered and the fire was spreading to the roof when the firemen arrived.

Richard E. Hare, 844 E. High St., at 10 a.m. Sunday drove his car with the front seat on fire beside him up to Station No. 4, 29 S. Institute St., and called out, "Fire." The firemen rushed out with a fire extinguisher and soon extinguished the blaze. Hare escaped being scorched. The fire was reported to have been caused by a cigarette.

At 9:04 a.m. Sunday Companies 1, 3, 4 and the aerial truck made runs to the new County Building, from which had come an automatic fire alarm. It was found that the alarm has been turned in by malfunctioning of the alarm system in the building. There was no fire.

YMCA Week Starts Next Sunday

National YMCA Week will be observed this year from Sunday to Jan. 26th. As a special feature of this observance the local "Y" will hold Open House on YMCA January 26th from 2 - 5 p.m.

There will be both gym shows and swim shows with several hundred YMCA youth members participating. The gym shows will give both boys and girls an opportunity to demonstrate the skills they have acquired during the past year in all kinds of gymnastics, basketball and physical education games.

The swim shows will feature demonstrations of every type of swimming taught in the YMCA Aquatic Program along with some special swimming events for both boys and girls.

Members of the YMCA board of directors and of the Y's Men's Club will be on hand all afternoon to show visitors the facilities and to direct them to various exhibits and activities that will be in progress.

As an extra treat for those attending the Open House the Y's Menettes Club will have a refreshment table set up in the YMCA Youth Center complete with punch and cookies for all.

The public is cordially invited to this open house and all "Y" members and their families are urged to drop in. There will be no admission charge for any of the activities or exhibits.

Armed Forces News

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON (Special to Gazette-Telegraph) — Defense will keep a close "eye" on the workings of the pro pay program as provided for in the 1963 pay act, and if it lives up to claims made in its behalf chances look good to expand the program effective with the 1966 budget, according to reliable Pentagon personnel sources.

The Air Force will try to secure authority this year to raise its current maximum "pro pay" from $60 monthly to $75 for a limited number of airmen in fiscal year 1965.

Unless the program proves beyond any question of doubt that it has resulted in an increase in retentions of desired enlisted men of all services the department will take a dim view of any request for an increase in pro pay funds.

No single Army Reserve or National Guard unit will be assigned a specific mission in the Civil Defense program, according to a Pentagon Army source. The training of these units will continue to be directed toward getting them ready for combat duty with as little delay as possible after mobilization.

The new policy on the Navy's brown shoes is applicable only to shoes issued to officer candidates and midshipmen since others on active duty buy their own shoes and thus the wearing of brown shoes by them is optional. Navy top level officials are resentful of the way the press handled the comptroller general report on the hassle since the way it was handled created a "stubborn" attitude on the part of the Navy to save the taxpayer's money. As a matter of fact the Navy had already drawn up plans for discontinuing the issue of brown shoes prior to the "CG" report being made public.

In his "maiden talk" on taking over as commandant of the Marines Gen. Wallace Greene told the press that the Marines could possibly have the new Stoner 63 series of 223 caliber weapon very soon, if various tests prove it out. After defense completes its tests on the weapon, the Marines will conduct their own tests beginning about April.

The Navy is still hopeful of retaining some of the yards on the closeout schedule. Officials making point of fact that many of the yards are "home ports" for many service families which would become a morale and re-enlistment factor is closed out.

The Pentagon is expected to ask Congress for legislation to provide greater protection to Reservists and their families while the civilian-soldiers are on annual training tours or engaged in weekly drills, and die while in training status. It would give survivors of deceased Reservists and National Guardsmen the same hospital care at military facilities as is now given the dependents of deceased regular service personnel. The proposal is now undergoing review in the Bureau of the Budget.

Senior married enlisted men and the married officers from Captain (0-3) on up pay out about 25 to 30 per cent of their service pay for state and federal income taxes. While service personnel on active duty do escape some taxes when making exchange-commissary purchases, they still pay state and federal taxes. Of course, when off-base they pay all local and state taxes. This "loss" in monthly income is expected to play an important role in "selling" Congress on necessity for new pay raise.

The Army is screening records of enlisted personnel to eliminate sending men overseas whose records bar them from re-enlistment. Up to now some have signed a statement of intent to re-enlist and then enjoyed a "round trip sea voyage" for free by not being acceptable for re-enlistment.

The defense budget for 1965 will call for only 1,200 Minutemen ICBMs. As previously reported, the Air Force asked for 1,500 but the initial budget survey reduced this to 1,300 for planning purposes. The final budget when presented to Congress will ask for funds for only 1,200. The immediate purchase will be for 50 rather than the 150 asked for by the Air Force.

As of now, the total Minutemen missiles on-site, ready for action, is placed at 300.

Army retired Maj. Gen. William K. Ghormley has succeeded Army Reserve Col. Leo A. Codd as executive vice president of the American Ordnance Association. This is a technical organization of 44,000 industrialists and scientists interested in the technical side of the Armed Forces. General Ghormley graduated in 1929 from West Point and retired from the Army in 1962.

In future joint army and Air Force maneuvers, it may be that the exercises will be held on Air Force installations rather than Army posts. A new agreement between the services spells out that per diem for participants will be based on the service on whose installations the exercises are held.

Congressional observers are of the firm opinion that the new federal employee pay raise measure which failed enactment in 1963 will become law some time in 1964. Due to the current economy drive, the effective date may be the enactment date rather than Jan. 1 as initially proposed.

It is also possible, say these same sources, that 1964 will see the proposal for 30-year federal employee retirement at age 55 become law. Employees already retired would not be brought under the law.

ponents, counterpart of the Guard Bureau, is now a lieutenant general.

Government agencies have a freeze on promotions and hirings in line with the new economy program. The Armed Forces "cut" in civilian jobs is to be between 20,000 and 25,000 below the present staffing level.

The Air Force has been tipped that it may face another congressional hearing in its handling of contracts. This one will relate to the cancelling out of a projected program with the same firm that caused a congressional hearing in 1963.

Congressional leaders have word from the Bureau of the Budget that the administration will take a dim view of pending HR 2332 which would give all veterans of WW-1 — regardless of their income — a $100 monthly tax free pension. Same sources also say the proposal to give retired Reserve officers with WW-1 service the 75 per cent retired pay is doomed to failure.

While the House passed a bill in 1963 to assure each service chief of a tour of 4 years, informed congressional sources are doubtful whether the Senate will hold hearings on the pending measure. The civilian levels of the Department of Defense are definitely against the proposal.

If Congress approves into law the Bolte Committee recommendations, the Air Force would gain an additional 5,000 field grade officers. Checking on this "on the hill" does not look like there will be much chance for congressional action in 1964 on the proposal.

Army Maj. Gen. Ethan A. Chapman will succeed Rear Adm. George H. Miller as C-S of U.S. Forces Japan when the latter comes to Washington to become director of Naval Warfare.

The Air Force Selection Board, which will select officers for promotion to permanent grade of lieutenant colonel, will convene on March 16.

Medical officers on active duty below star and flag grades, earned from $13,340 to $23,600 annually. In addition, flight surgeons of the Air Force earn an additional $1,860 to $2,940 annually. Notwithstanding, the Air Force has an annual turnover of 1,200 physicians and 700 dental officers. A big recruiting plan is in making to "sell" service careers to 1964-65 medical school and dental school graduates.

Boys Seen Taking Used Car Tires

Two teen-age boys were seen taking four used tires from the corner of the OK Tire Store, 2701 E. Highway 24 and then leave, the sheriff's department reported over the week-end.

Deputy Sheriffs Eldon McCune and Bernard Barry went to the store and were told the two boys had driven past the home of Paul Smith, 2709 E. Highway 24. Smith saw them take the tires and then leave. The tires are valued at a total of $15.

Need for Moral Guidelines to Stop Wars Cited by Symposium Speaker

By MARGUERITE MITCHELL, Gazette-Telegraph Staff Writer

An avowed pacifist speaking Sunday at Shove Chapel stressed the need for church bodies to form new "ethics of war," and said it was a church's obligation to act as a source of dissent in rejecting the ideas of wars.

"Unless we come up with some moral guidelines to stop war," Dr. Gordon Zahn said, "cynics will be justified in their repudiation of religion as a meaningful force."

Dr. Zahn, a professor of sociology at Chicago's Loyola University, spoke at the morning worship service at Colorado

College in conjunction with CC's symposium this week on World War II.

Using "Religion and Modern War" as his topic, Dr. Zahn, a Roman Catholic, said he was appalled by the fact that German Catholics were urged to support the way by their priests.

But, the sociologist said, had church leaders called for non-support of war, it would have been ignored because members wanted war, so the church preached war — considered by many clergymen, Zahn said, to be "a holy war."

Zahn is presently serving on a seven-man committee with the National Council of Christians and Jews to bring facts into the open about the Catholic clergy's encouragement of Hitler's wars.

Altho the speaker's denunciation of members of his faith was a bitter one, he also pointed out that what was true of Germany's Catholics was also true of her Protestants.

"There were also injustices committed on our side," Dr. Zahn said, emphasizing that even in America, these were met by silence by "our own church leaders."

Dr. Zahn was blunt in his opinion that the record of church supported wars is a long one. "Christians have killed Christians and have been blessed by other Christians for doing so."

The sociologist pleaded for a new ethical meaning of war, rather than "new formulations" of old tenets as brought forth by today's theologians.

"Taking of life in wholesale lots," Dr. Zahn said "is not the prerogative of any Caesar."

The speaker highlighted his talk by recalling a deeply moving story of an Austrian peasant who was beheaded during World War II because he refused World War II because he refused.

"He died gratefully," Dr. Zahn said, "rather than be forced to kill in an unjust war."

Christians must accept the prospect of martyrdom as this Austrian peasant, the speaker believes, recalling that enough people did during the early beginnings of Christianity to transform the pagan world. But the churches must provide better answers to war than as in the past, Dr. Zahn emphasized.

In closing, the speaker said there is no "hiding of facts; it is much harder to be a Christian today than it was centuries ago," but said he was convinced that the person who is willing to "bear individual witness alone" — where such a witness is, there is "The Kingdom of God."

Wheeler to Get 19-Gun Salute At Ft. Carson

Ft. Carson will welcome Army Chief of Staff Gen. Earle G. Wheeler with a 19-gun salute when he arrives at 5th Division Headquarters Wednesday at 8:30 A.M.

Gen. Wheeler will spend the morning visiting training activities of the division At 1 p.m. he will address all officers and senior NCOs.

A luncheon in his honor will be hosted at noon at the Carson

County commissioners gave the library use of an old dormitory there to house the books. School deposits will be made up and the three bookmobiles will be stocked there. The headquarters will not be open for direct service to the public, however.

Cataloging and processing of books for the Ute Pass Community Library has begun, and a new library in Palmer Lake has been started since the district became official Jan. 2.

Library service has continued as usual in the Black Forest Community Library, the Verner Z. Reed Branch, the West End Branch, the City Bookmobile, and in the Colorado Springs Public Library — now the central headquarters for the new district.

Special Course Being Offered To AFA Personnel

A course using facets of Psychology, Sociology, Economics, and the practical side of business, is being offered Air Force Academy personnel.

The Southern Colorado State College course in salesmanship, offered thru the Academy Education and Training Directorate, provides students with an opportunity to both further their college education and improve sales techniques.

Classes will meet from 6 to 9 p.m. today thru March 16. Three-quarter hours credit will be given.

Instructor for the course is Capt. Albert A. Fitzpatrick of the Department of Economics. Capt. Fitzpatrick holds BS, MS, MBA, and PhD degrees and has experience as a civilian purchasing agent and an Air Force procurement officer.

The evening program will include selections by the two bands from the mountain post and the ARADCOM chorus.

Young Demos To Discuss Love's Message

Some aspects of Gov. John Love's "State of the State" message will be discussed at 8 p.m. Tuesday at a meeting of the Young Democrats of El Paso County.

Speaker at the meeting, scheduled in the Green Room at the Antlers Hotel, will be John F. Gallagher, secretary of the El Paso County Democrat Central Committee.

Gallagher will also remark on the agenda of this session of the Legislature.

The public is invited to the meeting. Coffee will be served following Gallagher's talk.

Man Reports Loss Of Top Coat Sunday

Robert Shipley of Ft. Carson reported to the sheriff's department Sunday that someone took his $26 top coat from the rack at the Old Corral.

He told Deputy Sheriff Vincent Denboske that there were two other coats in the rack very similar to his and the garment could have been taken by mistake.

Bucs Rally to Topple Machebeuf in DPL Play

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer
DENVER — Dan Wright's Buccaneers, defenders of the Denver Parochial League crown, have disproven the home court advantage theory as the St. Mary's aggregation dropped its two league games at the Pirates gym.

However, for the second time this season the Colorado Springs team bounced back to hand one of the DPL challengers a stunning loss. This time the Bucs invaded the northland Sunday and slapped down Machebeuf, 63-61, at the St. Francis Gymnasium.

In other DPL action Sunday, the loop's title favorites, Regis, stormed past Mullen, 47-29, to keep its undefeated streak intact; unbeaten Holy Family fired past Mt. Carmel, 75-48. Cathedral slipped past St. Joseph's, 48-44; and last year's state parochial champion Annunciation overpowered St. Francis, 65-60.

Alto Wright's charges succumbed to a slow start that saw the Bucs go under 23-9 at the conclusion of the first period, the Bucs' offense jelled in the next three quarters to pull out the decisive victory.

Dick Palmer and Ralph Layman spearheaded the triumph by pumping in 12 and 11 points respectively before both lads were ejected from the contest in the fourth period because of five personal fouls. In addition to their scoring, the two tall cagers also assisted on the backboards with the 6-5 Layman snatching 11 caroms to lead in that department.

Because the Pirates' starting unit fared so poorly against Holy Family last Friday which resulted in the Springs school's second DPL loss, 59-50, Wright elected to bench his first team with the exception of Palmer for the first period. But the Pirate mentor was forced to substitute his regulars as the second unit went four minutes in that opening quarter before Palmer connected for the Bucs' first field goal.

From that moment on the visiting team performed on equal par with the opposition. But it wasn't until the third period with 5:56 remaining on the clock that the Pirates managed to deadlock the score for the first time when sophomore guard Joe Jezek tied the score, 31-31. Two free throws later, the Bucs' guard tossed in a layup after driving the entire court to put St. Mary's out-

Machebeuf players ejected from the contest, including the Buffalo's gunner, Bill Molitor, who tossed in 15 points before leaving the game early in the third period. It was Molitor's long bombardments that established the first period lead for the home team, 11-0, until Palmer broke the Bucs' scoring drought. Molitor attempted 16 shots from the field before sinking six two-pointers.

The Pirates hit 22 of 56 field goal attempts for 39.3 per cent while the St. Mary's cagers shot 57.5 at the charity line sinking 19 of 33 attempts. The Bucs could only manage 17 of 50 field goal attempts, although they shot a respectable 62.9 per cent at the free throw lane.

St. Mary's tall cagers took an astounding lead in rebounding as the Pirates snatched 48 caroms compared to their opponent's 25.

College football's two platoon system was abruptly outlawed in January 1953, and the one way specialist went into discard, when a drastic rule was adopted providing that no player withdrawn from a game could return in the same period.

Almost every year since then, there has been a gradual relaxation of the rule.

Under the new system, platoons may be sent into a game any time the clock is stopped. Two players may enter any time when the clock is running.

There are ample opportunities for platooning without loss of a time out. The clock stops when the ball goes out of bounds or is kicked over the goal. It stops when an official marches off a penalty. It stops during a first down measurement, after an incomplete pass and after a score.

"This is what the coaches desired," said elated Jack Curtice, rules chairman of the American Football Coaches Association. He had carried to the committee the plea of 90 per cent of the coaches for an end to rule restrictions.

"This is the nearest they could possibly come to what we wanted," Curtice said. "This is a reasonable rule."

By overwhelming majority, coaches all around the nation applauded the committee's action.

NFL's West Division Gains More 'Evidence'

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—If the court please, counsel for the Western Conference of the National Football League wishes to offer a third exhibit in support of its claim to superiority over the Eastern Conference. It asks that this be marked Exhibit C and placed in evidence. The jury will recall that Exhibit A was introduced Dec. 29. That was when the champion Chicago Bears of the Western Conference won the NFL title by defeating New York's Eastern Conference champions 14-10 at Chicago.

Exhibit B was the Playoff Bowl game at Miami Jan. 5. In that one the West's No. 2 team, Green Bay, scored a 40-23 victory over Cleveland, the Eastern Conference runner-up. Exhibit C is the NFL's 14th annual Pro Bowl game, played Sunday before a crowd of 67,242 and won by the Western Conference All-Stars 31-17.

The Western Conference submits that this sort of thing has been going on almost without interruption, since 1957. It suggests that since that time the Eastern Conference has probably suffered more reverses than it has pulled in post-season games.

Of the last seven NFL title games, Western Conference teams have won six. In the Pro Bowl, the West has won six of the last eight.

Against Eastern Conference opponents during the last regular season, the West had a less substantial edge, winning seven games, losing six and tying one.

Baltimore quarterback John Unitas threw two touchdown passes and Green Bay fullback Jim Taylor gained 98 yards rushing Sunday as the West scored its ninth Pro Bowl victory in 14 tries.

Unitas, for the third time in this series, was named Player of the Game. And Baltimore's retiring defensive end, Gino Marchetti, was named Lineman of the Game.

Cleveland fullback Jim Brown scored both of the East's touchdowns and led all rushers with 101 yards in 15 carries. Taylor got his 98 yards in 14 carries, averaging seven yards to Brown's 6.73.

The West, ahead 14-3 at the half, ran its lead to 25 points early in the third period. First Jesse Whitenton of Green Bay intercepted a pass by Washington's Norm Snead and returned the ball 26 yards for a touchdown.

Bobby Mitchell of Washington fumbled returning the next kickoff and Herb Adderley of Green Bay recovered on the East 21. Unitas passed 14 yards to Mike Ditka of Chicago and, on third down, threw a five-yarder to Gail Coghill of Detroit for a touchdown.

That made it 28-3 and the East was defeated.

Brown made his two touchdowns runs, one for eight yards and one for three, in the fourth quarter.

The East led once, 3-0, in the first period. Bill Glass of Cleveland intercepted a pass by Unitas and returned the ball to the West 28, setting up a 30-yard field goal by Sam Baker of Dallas.

But the West went ahead in the same period on a 37-yard touchdown run by Taylor and scored again in the second on a four-yard pass from Unitas to Ray Berry of Baltimore.

The East made the longest gain on a 57-yard pass play from St. Louis quarterback Charley Johnson to Mitchell. The longest run was Taylor's 37-yarder.

Unitas completed eight of 16 passes for 93 yards and Chicago's Bill Wade completed five of nine for 90. For the East, Johnson hit on seven of 15 for 100 yards and Snead completed one of four for nine.

Oklahoma Football Team Endorses Jones for Coach

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—Veteran assistant coach Gomer Jones had the backing of the Oklahoma football team and university president today to succeed illustrious Bud Wilkinson as head coach.

A four-man screening committee plunged quickly into the job of choosing a successor to Wilkinson, 47, whose resignation Saturday possibly cleared the first hurdle toward a race for the U.S. senate in Oklahoma this year.

Oklahoma co-captain Newt Burton said all but two or three players who were on the 1963 squad and will return signed a petition asking that Jones be hired. He said 46 players signed the petition, with freshmen and graduating seniors not participating.

Dr. George L. Cross, university president, said he would endorse the petition if it is submitted to him. Burton said it would be presented today to Cross and Dean Earl Sneed, chairman of the university's athletic council.

"I favor the desires said to be expressed by the players in the petition," Cross said, "and I will favorably endorse it and send it immediately to the regents' athletic committee if and when it is presented to me. I think very highly of Mrs. Jones."

Burton said the petition signing was a spontaneous act, begun Sunday while players were discussing the coaching vacancy.

"We feel we have as much interest in this thing as anybody," Burton said, "and we're trying to go through the proper channels so the people in charge will know how we feel."

In announcing his resignation, Wilkinson admitted publicly for the first time he was seriously considering the U.S. Senate race, but stopped short of declaring his candidacy.

It does not appear altogether certain that Jones, a favorite among Oklahoma fans and team members, would accept the post if offered.

Wilkinson, who in 17 seasons at Oklahoma won 139, lost 24 and tied 4 in regular season play, said he intends to remain at Oklahoma as athletic director, at least temporarily.

As athletic director he has the right by contract to recommend his successor as football coach—a right he said he fully intends to exercise as a member of the four-man screening committee.

The actual choice of a successor, however, rests with the University of Oklahoma Board of Regents, but Wilkinson's recommendation would carry considerable weight.

"In view of the recruiting situation, we intend to move with all dispatch," said law school Dean Earl Sneed, chairman of the school's athletic council and a member of the screening committee.

"I expect we will have a decision within the next three weeks," Sneed said.

Mentioned as possible successors are such Wilkinson products as Darrell Royal of Texas, Jim Owens of Washington, Eddie Crowder of Colorado and Jack Mitchell of Kansas.

A favorite among Oklahoma fans and Sooners team members would be Gomer Jones, Wilkinson's assistant for 16 years as line coach. However, it does not appear altogether certain Jones, 49, would accept.

Allen Youngest Skater Ever to Win Nationals

By R. L. SHAFFER
CLEVELAND (AP)—United States hopes for a figure skating victory in the 1964 Olympic Games rest on the shoulders of a fancy-skating crew whose average age is slightly under 17.

And leading the men's contingent is the youngest U.S. national champion ever, 14-year-old Scott Ethan Allen of Smoke Rise, N.J.

The women's division will be led by freckle-faced Peggy Fleming, 15, of Pasadena, Calif.

By contrast, the senior pairs titlists picked Sunday in finals at the National Figure Skating championships look like seasoned veterans. Judianne Fothergill, 19, and her brother, Jerry, 21, who have been on the U.S. world team the past two years, were almost unanimous choices for the national pairs title.

Allen, a slender bundle of energy whose relaxed and graceful skating style drew repeated applause from the Cleveland Arena crowd, edged defending singles champion Tommy Litz, 18, of Hershey, Pa., by a hair.

In the complicated scoring system, places are determined by judges' rankings, with overall points used only to decide ties. Allen and Litz tied with two first-place votes, but Allen's three second-place votes gave him the title.

In third place was Monty Hoyt, 19, of Denver, a former national champion and veteran of two world meets.

Qualifying for the Olympic Games at Innsbruck, Austria, Jan. 29-Feb. 9, were the top three in senior men's, ladies' and pairs divisions.

Miss Fleming, who never before won a national title, will be accompanied by Albertina Noyes, 15, of Arlington, Mass., and Christine Haigler of Colorado Springs, Colo., who just turned 16 last week. Misses Noyes and Haigler placed second and third respectively, behind Miss Fleming in the nationals.

All three top pairs teams are brother-sister duos. Runner-up to the Fothergills in the championships were Vivian, 15, and Ronald Joseph, 19, of Highland Park, Ill. In third place were Cynthia Kauffman, 15, and her brother, Ronald, 17.

Also winning a trip to Europe, although they won't be in Olympic competition, were the top three couples in the gold dance. That team, led by Darlene Streich, and Charles Fetter, Jr., both 20, of Indianapolis, will compete in the World Figure Skating Championships at Dortmund, West Germany, Feb. 25-29.

U.S. figure skating forces have been rebuilding ever since the 1961 plane crash in Belgium that killed all 18 members of the U.S. team, and observers here say that the current crop, despite its youth, is the best they have seen in the last few years.

Wall Jr., back in the tournament golf spotlight after his victory in the $30,000 San Diego Open, led the professional contingent Monday to one of his favorite shooting grounds.

That would be the Bing Crosby National this weekend, an event in which Wall tied for second a year ago and won in his last really big year in the golfing wars, 1959, when the famed Masters came his way.

The personable, rather retiring Wall returned to national attention Sunday when he polished off the opposition with a carefully-carved par 70, a 72-hole score of 274, six shots under par for the attractive, rolling par 35-35-70 Rancho Bernardo Country Club course.

Tony Lema finished with a rush—30 on the backside—and tied with Bob Rosburg at 278 for second. Rosburg had a 70.

The windup in bright, sunny weather found several erstwhile threats finishing in arrears.

National Open Champion Julius Boros had a 74 for 282; Gene Littler 73 for 280; British Open Champion Bob Charles 66 for 277, and Al Geiberger 71 for 279.

Arnold Palmer, finally shaking off a flu bug which had harassed him all week, rallied with a 66 for 281. It was worth $275 for Palmer, an amount he usually budgets for caddy fees.

Wall confided he told his caddy before setting out, "I hope I can shoot a 70. I think I can win." The score and the prophecy panned out.

This was Arthur Jonathon Wall Jr.'s first major victory since the 1960 Canadian Open.

Santa Anita Races to Beat Time Element

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI)—A program of almost a stakes race a day was announced by Santa Anita today as it sought to get in as much of last week's racing program as possible to make up the schedule wiped out by a five-day strike.

Chief stakes to be made up with a midweek racing date was the $50,000 San Fernando Stakes for 4-year-olds, a major stepping stone towards the $100,000 Charles H. Strub Stakes Jan. 25. The sensational filly Lamb Chop will make her winter debut in the San Fernando.

Team Named For Olympic Winter Games

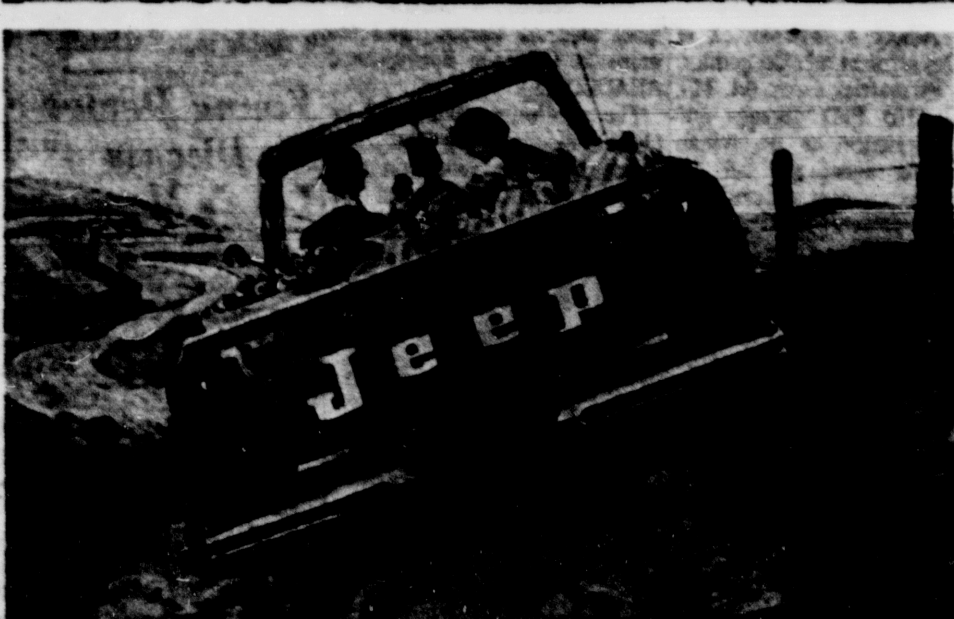

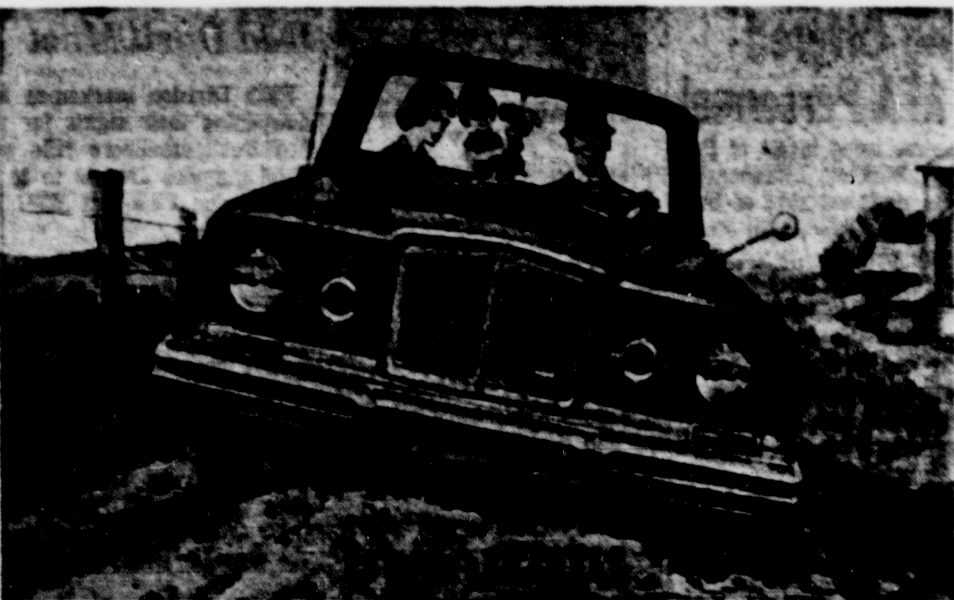

CLEVELAND (AP)—Here is the team chosen Sunday at the National Figure Skating Championships and Olympic trials to represent the United States at the 1964 Olympic Games at Innsbruck, Austria, Jan. 29-Feb. 9:

Senior men—Scott Ethan Allen, 14, Smoke Rise, N.J.; Tommy Litz, 18, Hershey, Pa.; Monty Hoyt, 19, Denver.

Senior ladies—Peggy Fleming, 15, Pasadena, Calif.; Albertina Noyes, 15, Arlington, Mass.; Christine Haigler, 15, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Senior pairs—Judianne and Jerry Fothergill, Tacoma, Wash.; Vivian and Ronald Joseph, Highland Park, Ill.; Cynthia and Ronald Kauffman, Seattle.

Slalom Event Won by West Germany

WENGEN, Switzerland (AP) — A West German won the special slalom event of the international Laubenhorn Ski Championships Sunday but only after the apparent winner was disqualified for missing a gate.

Ludwig Leitner made the two runs in 56.81 and 44.35 for a combined time of 101.16 seconds in snow whipped by 64-mile-an-hour winds. Guy Perillat of France completed the runs in six-tenths of a second less.

More than half of the 82-man starting field, including the U.S. Olympic team's best slalom racers, was eliminated through falls or disqualifications.

The United States protested the disqualification of Jim Heuga of Tahoe City, Calif., after his fast second run, but the race jury unanimously rejected the protest. Heuga had placed seventh in the provisional standings for the two heats.

France protested Perillat's disqualification, but it, too, was rejected. A taped French television film clearly showed Perillat's knocking down a gate pole on the first run.

Gordon Eaton of Littleton, N.H., was the top U.S. finisher. His total time of 112.56 seconds was good for 16th place.

Bud Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., fell on the second run after placing sixth in the first. Chuck Ferries of Houghton, Mich., and Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., both fell on the first run.

Finishing behind Leitner in second was Hias Leitner, no relation, of Austria, whose time was 101.25. Karl Schranz of Austria was third in 101.26.

Gerhard Nennig of Austria won the meet's combined title. He was fourth in Saturday's giant slalom and fifth Sunday. Ludwig Leitner placed second.

DU Wins College Meet

CRESTED BUTTE, Colo. (AP) — Denver won the Rocky Mountain Intercollegiate Ski meet Sunday.

Team scoring was Denver 380.48, Western State 374.88, Colorado 372.49, Wyoming 359.27 and Air Force 326.41.

Western State was the host team.

Proportionate Representation To Be Sought

By LARRY OSIUS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic party has taken a big step toward solving one of its convention problems, that of proportionate representation. But another problem has, if anything, been aggravated.

The party began back in 1952 to ignore the fact that some states were growing and others were losing population. The result: some smaller states had a disproportionately loud voice in the convention.

There were two ways to correct this situation — take votes away from some states or give votes to others. The first seemed too painful. So Saturday the Democratic National Committee approved a vote allocation formula for the 1964 convention which recognizes both population and zeal for the party — and greatly increases the number of votes to be cast.

But the other problem, size of the convention, is thornier than ever. To cast the 2,316 votes authorized for the August convention, the committee approved a total of 3,056 delegates and 2,208 alternates.

This means that about 5,564 of them will be floating around Atlantic City's mammoth Convention Hall compared with 4,509 four years ago at Los Angeles. As usual at Democratic conventions, most of them will be casting only one-half of a vote.

By contrast, the Republican convention in San Francisco will have only 1,308 delegates, to cast a like number of votes. Another 1,308 alternates are authorized, meaning that physically the GOP convention will be about half as large as the Democratic conclave.

Democratic leaders say they don't mind. The additional alternates and delegates give them more openings to spread among the party faithful. But convention floor managers may be gnashing their teeth come next August.

Here's how the vote allocation formula works.

Each state will get three convention votes for each electoral vote. Since the Electoral College is based mostly on population, this helps solve the representation problem.

Likewise, each state gets a convention vote for every 100,000 Democratic votes cast in 1960. Thus bigger states with more voters will benefit.

Furthermore, each state voting the Kennedy-Johnson ticket in 1960 will get a bonus of 10 votes.

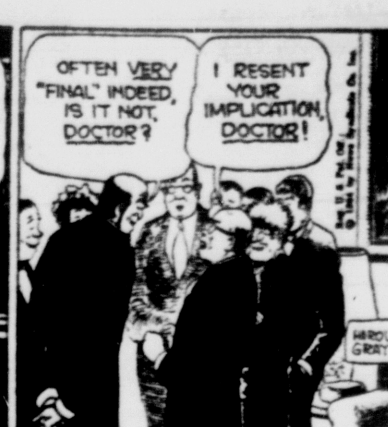

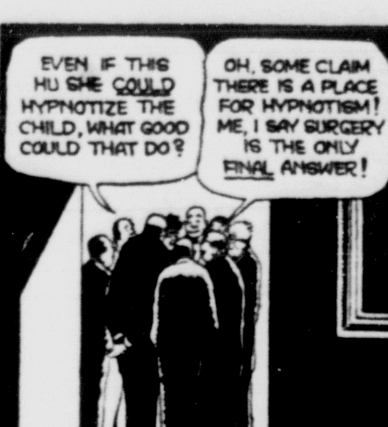

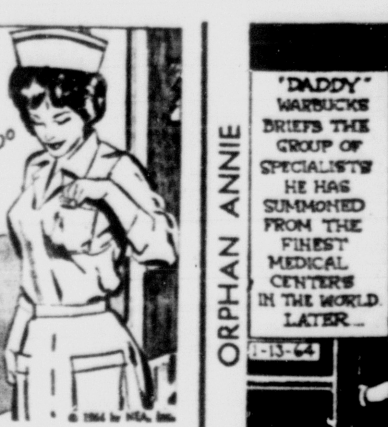

By and large, the northeastern industrial states gained the most at the expense of Great Plains, Rocky Mountain and Southern states.

The tier of states from Illinois eastward through Maryland and north through New England jumped from 41.2 per cent this year to 44.1 per cent this year.

Conversely, the tier of Plains states from North Dakota through Texas and westward — but excluding Alaska, Hawaii and the Pacific Coast states — will be down from 18.3 per cent of the convention votes to 15.4 per cent.

The 11 Southern states, counting Kentucky, will be down from 21.1 per cent to 19.7 per cent of the convention strength. Some states made big gains, Hawaii, for instance, jumped from 9 votes to 25, a 177 per cent increase. Other big gainers are Connecticut, 21 to 43 votes, 109 per cent; Delaware 11 to 22 and Maryland 24 to 48, 100 per cent; California 81 to 154, 90 per cent, and New Jersey 41 to 77, 88 per cent.

At the other end were Montana and Wyoming. Neither gained a single vote. Oklahoma went from 29 to 30 votes, up 3 per cent.

Conditions in Berlin Too High, Report Says

BERLIN (AP)—Western conditions for reopening of the Berlin wall have been set so high that the Communist East German regime could hardly accept, authoritative sources said today.

One condition on which new negotiations between West Berlin and the East Germans definitely would fail was there would be no new agreement unless East Berliners also could come to West Berlin, the sources said.

This condition was set by West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard in unanimous agreement with his cabinet and has been accepted by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, the sources said.

Neither West German officials nor the Western allies would say anything about this.

"As far as I am concerned, this issue is now dead," said one source. "The East Germans cannot possibly accept the Western demand because all their people would run away," the source added.

PARIS—A Frenchman who recently bought two large teddy bears was charged full fare for each when he took them home on a bus.

ENDURANCE CONTEST—Pictured above being bade farewell by Lt. Col. Mark Azzolina is T. Sgt. Robert V. Hilton, trumpet section leader of the "NORAD Cavalcade of Music." Sgt. Hilton has been awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal for his outstanding service while with the Cavalcade. During his tenure with the Cavalcade, Sgt. Hilton has played over 1000 engagements in succession without missing one. This included every concert, parade, retreat, show and dance entertainment that the Cavalcade has played since its inception. Sgt. Hilton has traveled over 180,000 miles and has over 920 flying hours. Sgt. Hilton was the first Air Force Musician to report into the "NORAD Cavalcade of Music" four years and seven months ago. He is now being re-assigned to the Air Force Academy Band.

Youth Arraigned for Sweetheart's Murder

NEW YORK (AP)—A youth Pearl River, N.Y., in Central Park Friday night, police said that Bell admitted "nice kid" sobbed bitterly in court Sunday as he was arraigned on a murder charge in the death of his sweetheart.

Richard F. Bell Jr., 19, a telephone switchman from Blauvelt, N.Y., is accused of strangling Carol Yvonne Hughes, 18.

Deaths
MADISON, N.J. (AP)—Howard S. Bunn, 64, chairman of the Union Carbide Corporation's executive committee, died Sunday at his home in Madison, N.J., a chemical engineer who joined the firm in 1922, also was a former vice chairman of the Union Carbide board.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Louis Edward Gordon, 62, copilot for Aerial Mail when in 1928 he became the first woman to fly the Atlantic Ocean, died Saturday. Gordon had been an inspector for Trans World Airlines for the past 23 years.

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP)—Byron I. Johnson, 73, former premier of British Columbia, died Sunday. Johnson, partially paralyzed by a stroke nine years ago, headed a coalition government from 1947 to 1952. His government in 1947 introduced one of Canada's first hospital insurance plans.

PITTSBURGH, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. Avery Robinson, 85, who under her maiden name of Mary Chess built a multimillion-dollar perfume business out of a kitchen hobby, died Saturday after a heart attack. Mrs. Robinson, who began making perfumes in the kitchen of her New York City apartment in 1932 as a hobby, built a perfume business that sold her product at one time in stores throughout the United States, Canada and Europe. She retired in 1957.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Justice Glenn Terrell, 86, of the Florida Supreme Court, died Sunday at his home. During a legal career that spanned an unprecedented 41 years on the Florida Supreme Court, Terrell wrote some 2,500 opinions, many of which were noted for a salty turn of language.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Walter H. Donovan, 75, Hollywood songwriter who composed such tunes as "One Dozen Roses" and "Aha Daba Honey-moon," died Thursday of a heart attack. Donovan was a vaudevillian before settling in Hollywood to write songs.

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—C.N. (Jimmy) James, 65, who in 1926 piloted the first mail plane into Los Angeles died Saturday in his sleep. James, one of the original four pilots of Western Air Express, made the first mail run from Salt Lake City on April 17 of that year. In later years he became vice president in charge of operations for Western Air Lines and, since 1950, head of his own firm of security guards.

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—Salvatore Santella, 67, pianist, conductor and composer, died Sunday at his Hollywood home. Santella, who composed scores for Hollywood musicals and Broadway shows once studied under the Russian composer Sergei Rachmaninov.

NEW PLYWOOD INDUSTRY CROSSETT, Ark. (UPI)—A huge new plywood industry for the South, making laminations from pine species hitherto neglected, is envisioned by Vice President W. C. Norman of Georgia-Pacific Corp. His company is building a pine plywood mill at Fordyce, Ark. Fir, a western wood, has been the basis of the structural plywood business in the past.

Urban Redevelopment Plans Opposed by Critics

By TOM NOLAN
WASHINGTON (NEA)—For a program dedicated to solving the problems of America's cities—poor housing, traffic congestion and downtown decay—urban renewal has been receiving increasingly heavy criticism.

A recent Government Accounting Office (GAO) report on Cleveland's Erieview project triggered an investigation by a special House of Representatives Housing subcommittee. GAO charged that Urban Renewal Association (URA) employed "vague criteria" for justifying clearance of a commercial area.

Although the GAO report in no way took a position against the Erieview project, or against revitalization of commercial areas in general, it did spotlight problem areas for downtown urban renewal programs.

Several Cleveland merchants argued that their buildings, which were condemned to make way for new offices and apartments, were in no way substandard. GAO reported that the local urban renewal agency failed to list specific minimum standards for buildings to avoid clearance in the Erieview area.

The subcommittee has questioned the mayors of Cleveland, Norfolk, Pittsburgh and Providence. About three dozen urban renewal projects embracing $212 million in federal grants are completed or under way in these places.

Plans are in the works for the subcommittee to view projects first-hand. Testimony will be heard from those most directly affected by urban renewal—or as one congressman puts it, "the most people who have something other than a bureaucratic interest in perpetuation of the program."

Most opponents say they do not question the results of urban renewal, merely the means:

"Of the first 426 cities receiving federal grants for urban renewal," notes Rep. Bruce Alger, R-Tex., $1.85 billion was made available to 254 cities where the average household income was above the U.S. average, while only $400 million was committed for 172 cities where average household income was below the national average."

"I believe in charity," says Rep. Sydney Herlong Jr., D-Fla., "but there are many people living in low-rent public housing who earn more money than thousands of tax-payers who are paying half of their rent. That's not charity, that's a shakedown."

Critics cite Norwalk, Conn. After a federally aided downtown project was started in late 1961, the city's retail sales dropped a staggering 23.8 percent during the first quarter of 1962.

The Chamber of Commerce there blamed the Norwalk Redevelopment Agency for the drop, explaining that "federal local officials withheld vital information on the progress of the redevelopment program," and that there was a lack of communication between the agency and the public. This situation, said the chamber spokesmen, caused shoppers to shun the business district.

Other critics say the government's power of eminent domain apparently is being used in some downtown renewal projects to take property from small business and give it, with the support of government subsidy, to bigger business.

Another heavily criticized part of the program is the process of relocating families and businesses evicted from the condemned areas. URA requires that satisfactory housing accommodations be available for displaced families. Residents are reimbursed up to $200 for moving costs, while a business may be reimbursed up to $25,000 for moving expenses.

Many cities have handled the problem quite well. In others, complaints have arisen.

For example, a proposed 225-unit public housing project in destruction of a major portion of the Negro-owned property in the city. Many Negroes whose lands were condemned pointed out that their incomes were too high for them to qualify for public housing and that they might have to move out of the city.

Little property is available in Alexandria for sale to Negroes. And in Washington, D.C., a secretary purchased a house in a slum area near the Capitol for $9,500, pledging her personal earnings in addition to the land as security for a loan to pay for the house.

The area was subsequently selected for urban renewal and her property taken over by eminent domain. The District Court determined that fair value for her house was only $7,500.

She was left with no home, a debt of $2,000 and the necessity of finding a new place to live.

Planning Faces Trouble, Say Loveland Chiefs

LOVELAND (AP)—City officials complained at Gov. John Love's 11th forum here that Colorado's annexation laws make it impossible for them to plan properly.

They were told that changes in the laws would probably be presented to the legislature next year.

Mayor Paul Crouch of Boulder and Ray Patterson of Loveland said isolated and sometimes within city limits are a problem. Patterson asked that cities be given authority to prevent formation of the districts.

Mayor Ralph Price of Longmont said current laws are an obstacle to his city's growth and planning.

Gov. Love said he hopes to have an annexation proposal for legislators at their 1965 session. His 100-man committee on local affairs is studying the problem.

Rep. John Mackie, R-Longmont, told those at the forum he would recommend to the governor's committee that local governments be given more authority in solving problems connected with service districts. Mackie is vice chairman of the committee.

Dr. William Ross of Colorado State College, one of three college presidents who appeared on the forum, said he was concerned with discrimination that prevents students in the lower parts of their classes from attending college. He said young-sters need a college education today because they have to compete with college graduates.

Dr. Joseph Smiley of Colorado University and Dr. William Morgan of Colorado State University also spoke briefly.

The forum, postponed from Nov. 25-26 because of the assassination of President Kennedy, will conclude today.

It's important that every family have a "family doctor" . . . choose him before you need him . . . while your health is good. Then when you are ill and need his services you'll receive personal attention not otherwise possible. And when your doctor gives you a prescription . . . remember it's a combination of medicines to speed your recovery.

He may write that prescription on the blank of some particular drug store . . . but in FREI America you have the privilege of taking that prescription to the drugist of your choice.

We invite you to bring your prescriptions here . . . where they will be compounded exactly as written by your doctor. Compounding prescriptions is a mighty important part of our business . . . and SAVING OUR PATRONS money on every prescription is also a mighty important part of our business.

Mother, Eight Children Die as Home Burns

PORTNORRIS N. J. (AP)—Flames destroyed a two-room frame house, killing Virginia Johnson, 26, and her eight children Sunday.

The dead children were David, 11; Roxanne, 10; Alice Jean, 9; Daniel, 7; Margaret, 6; Tracy Lee, 2 and Nicky, 10 months.

Their father, David D. Johnson, was on an oyster boat in the Atlantic Ocean at the time.

State Trooper Robert Warner said the fire was started by a wood burner. There was no insulation under the burner, which was about six inches off the floor, and heat set the floor on fire, Warner said.

Jordan, Nasser Will Reestablish Relations

CAIRO (AP)—Jordan and the United Arab Republic have agreed to restore diplomatic relations, informed sources said early today.

The sources said President Abdel Gamal Nasser and King Hussein of Jordan agreed to resume relations Sunday at a two-hour conference.

The U.A.R. broke off relations with Jordan in 1961 after Jordan recognized the Syrian regime which had pulled out of the U.A.R. after three years of unity.
